Petoskey High

School

The item that aroused the most interest in our school life this year was the new addition to our building. All looked forward with much anticipation to its completion.

It was a rather harrowing experience for both teachers and students to concentrate at times. Frequent blasts from the air hammers, the gnashing and grinding of cement mixers, the anvil chorus of pounding, and the shouting added much to the confusion.

Teachers, at times, found it rather hard to keep everyone's mind on school work. All were caught in the excitement of watching the building bloom into the completed structure it now is. Each new accomplishment caused much comment from all of us. As sidewalk superintendents, we wouldn't allow the builders to make a move without much-to-do and discussion among ourselves.

All will agree that this was quite an accomplishment, and we take great pride in claiming the addition as our own. We feel that they were partially responsible for the building as it seemed to become a normal part of our school life.

We all take great pride in claiming the picturesque stairway which leads to a door that invites us in. Once inside we are captured by the serene beauty which surrounds us. The bold Gothic arches, one of the first striking features, do much to enhance the rustic simplicity which seems to engulf and hold us as if in a mystical spell.

Forward

After a summer which seemed at times, fleeting, and at still others, long and endless, students began to migrate back to P. H. S. They came by bike, bus, and car--not to forget good old "a la pied."

All were looking forward to the completion of the addition to our building. Each day we carefully noted the progress of the builders and would try to anticipate their next move. It was an impressive sight to see a new building unfold before our very eyes.

Of course all were excited and just a bit inquisitive and restless (which was not helped by the frequent blasts from air hammers.) This made it a little hard to get down to work but soon we settled back into the familiar routine which accompanies school life. We were lost in a swirl of social activities. Also we kept foremost in mind the more serious things of life, such as the acquiring of a good education.

We must appreciate all the work others have done to provide us with the many advantages which many of us take for granted. Of course, it takes everyone working together to build a school up to the high level we have. This could not have been done without the untiring efforts of the faculty and others interested in our welfare. In this, the students are an important factor, for without their co-operation, we could never have reached this position.

We have earned for ourselves a high academic rating which is combined with many vocational, athletic, and social opportunities. Through these means and our daily association with others, many lasting friendships are formed. It is here we will gain a background which may help or hinder us for the rest of our lives. We have tried to portray and preserve for you an accurate account of your work and play in this, your 1958 Petosegan.

The student governing body which works with the faculty in planning school work and activities is our Student Council. Their purpose is to promote better student-teacher relationship.

Each advisory elects one member each spring. These members then report the proceedings of the meetings to their home rooms. Here suggestions can be offered and opinions taken thus making them a truly representative body.

With everyone taking such a part, the students develop a feeling of closeness to their Student Council.

FIRST ROW: Miss Olson, Miss Kline.
SECOND ROW: Veroneze Kellogg, M. J. Bailey, Barbara Clements.

The Dramatics Club meets every Tuesday at 4:00 P.M. in the auditorium of Petoskey High School for its weekly meeting. The members of this club are forty-two in number including its two advisors.

This year two plays were presented for the enjoyment of the student body. They were: "A Girl in Every Port", and "The Trouble With Mothers". Some of their other activities included a radio play entitled "The Seven Strangers", pantomimes to develop body expression, breathing and voice exercises, interpretive reading of fairy tales, and back stage work for the Junior Play. They have also participated in a Pep Meeting.

The purpose of this club is to encourage acting and to give its members a practical experience in all phases of theatrical arts.

 Paul Titus, Vice-President;
 Jan Jacobs, Secretary;

Petoskey High's only organization based primarily upon scholarship is the National Honor Society.

Scholarship is not the only qualification. Others taken into consideration are leadership, character, and service.

Members are chosen from the Junior and Senior classes. Qualifications require that a student must be in the upper quarter of his class scholastically, with five per-cent of the Junior and ten per-cent of the Senior classes being admitted.

Members are elected by the faculty and active members of the society.

Initiation of Seniors is carried on in an assembly, with the rest of the student body present as witnesses. An impressive candlelight ceremony then takes place which leaves observers resolving to do better academically.

Although membership has been thus far honorary, the National Honor Society is a goal for all to work toward.

Have you ever seen the Greek letters on a triangular-shaped pin? If so, the girl wearing it has the distinction of belonging to the Sub Deb Club.

Although this is a selective club whose interests are primarily social, the Sub-Debs have many worthwhile projects. This year their main project was the sponsorship of a bake sale with the proceeds going to the school for retarded children. They also give an annual donation to the Junior Red Cross.

Two items of interest are their annual slumber party for the Seniors who are honorary members and only attend parties, and the informal initiation with pledges dressed, this year, in toyland fashion.

This Club definitely does much to help our school standing.

 Dick Smith, Vice-President;
 Dave Stolt, Secretary;
 Dwayne Swenor, Treasurer;
 Al Bachelor, Sargent-at-Arms.

The newest organization to be added to the many already offered at our school, is the Varsity Club. Such variety does much to enhance our school life as each individual may choose those best suited to their interests.

This club has several appealing factors for those qualified as their objectives are to promote school spirit, a better association between athletics and the public and also between the athletes themselves, better scholarship among members, and an increased interest in varsity athletics is another goal to be achieved. Those eligible for membership are boys who have won a letter although a few others qualify under special cases.

All members-elect must be voted in by a two-thirds majority of the club and all go through a very informal initiation.

The Varsity Club offers a close fellowship for those eligible, and through this club they can do much toward furthering better student relationship.

The Inkslingers is a creative writing organization which has these three purposes; to encourage the use of creative ability through writing, to encourage the use of all other creative talents in themselves and others everywhere, and to foster leadership in all other creative enterprises.

Membership in the Inkslingers has grown from a group of ten persons in 1953 to its present number of thirty. To become a member, a high school student submits a manuscript to be approved by the club.

The activities of the Inkslingers include the installation of officers and a dinner in the fall, weekly meetings, an occasional evening meeting, and a picnic in the spring. Twice a year the Inkslingers publish a magazine of creative writing by the students of Petoskey High School. Often the Inklings contains some work by elementary students.

The Future Homemakers of America encourage students to become interested in Homemaking. The club offers membership to any girl in grades nine through twelve willing to pursue this phase in order to: Emphasize the importance of worthy home membership, encourage democracy in home and community life, provide wholesome individual and group recreation, and to further interests in home economics.

Members are kept busy striving to live up to these high standards thus giving the club wide and varied interests far too numerous to mention.

The high ideals carried out by the F.H.A. girls do much toward expanding our school life.

"Learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, and living to serve," is the motto the Future Farmers of America strive to uphold.

This organization offers much to willing fellows. Every phase of farming is represented in their numerous activities. To insure the incentive to do one's best there are many goals to work for, honors to be obtained, and the self-satisfaction which comes from these accomplishments.

It can truly be said that F.F.A. develops "leadership for the school, within the school."

Upon reaching grade nine, anyone with the incentive to take part in an active portion of our school activities can participate in the Pep Club. A busy club such as this can always use a member willing to do his share.

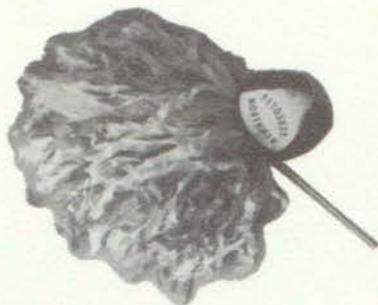

This activity stems partially from their main undertaking which is to promote the pep and good sportsmanship for which P.H.S. is so well noted. They are also sponsors of the cheerleaders.

As every club, the inevitable problem of making the "old green stuff" arises. They sell small megaphones, booster pins, "Northmen" sweatshirts, and other appropriate items. Funds are also derived from the coat check which they operate.

A club with as many interests as the Pep Club offers many opportunities to the students of our school.

Members of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs are often seen scurrying around the school making arrangements for the many activities in which they both participate.

A social event of importance to the school activities is their co-sponsorship of the annual Christmas Formal. This year the theme was woven around the title, Noel Nocturne. The pungent fragrance of pine boughs, a maze of colors swirling to the throbbing tempo of an orchestra, combined with an atmosphere of a secluded cafe, produced

This sense of co-operation stems from their purpose, "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character." Both devote a portion of each meeting to a worship program.

With both organizations working together to produce such note-worthy accomplishments, P.H.S. can certainly take pride in claiming such worthwhile clubs.

The Girls' Athletic Association is the only club of its kind at Petoskey High School. It provides all types of recreation for its members and any girl in the ninth through twelfth grades may join it. Most of their meetings are held on Tuesday evenings.

Their activities include girls' basketball, badminton, and volleyball in the fall and winter seasons; softball and tennis are played in the spring.

Even though the girls work hard, they derive much satisfaction from their efforts.

With Autumn's crisp, cool days, comes football, only one phase of this vast panorama of school life. This is a game that makes men out of boys and causes fans to sit out in the rain, snow, sleet, and biting cold, to become part of the pageantry and thrill created by this sport.

All catch part of the excitement which shoots through the air like static electricity. It takes the cooperation of everyone to make this as efficiently and smoothly run as a precision machine. The team looks to the fans for support and the will to go on. The fans in turn look to the team for excitement, and in their minds imagine themselves taking part in the complicated plays.

We must remember that our record shows nothing of the school spirit which was used to the utmost. In defeat the Northmen were always in the game until the final gun. With fans and teammates remaining loyal throughout the season, we may be proud of the fine tradition established at P.H.S. which has earned the respect of rival coaches and opponents.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

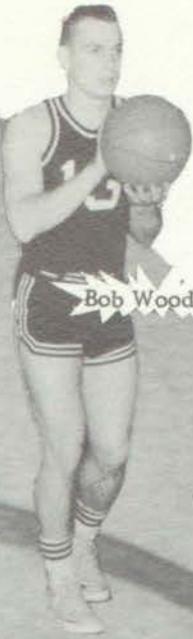

Our Northmen certainly provided the school with many thrilling moments. Everyone was proud of the type of ball our basketball team played.

They provided a good, clean sport, and took the outcome like champions. They were both gracious winners and losers, rightfully earning the respect of all our opponents.

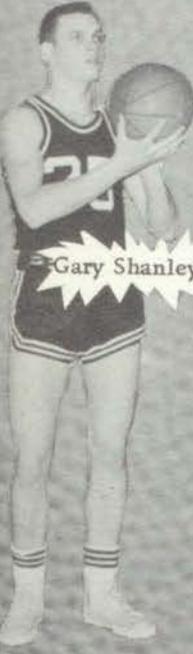

Our team played to the fullest of their abilities. Although they were several individuals, all pulled together as a single unit, showing the many hours of practice that produced fine teamwork. Fans also did their best. They were loyal to the last whistle, backing the team all the way.

TRACK TALK:

Everyone looks forward to the beginning of the track season in the spring. The team's progress is carefully followed by all the loyal P.H.S. fans.

To the fellows on the team, the coming of a new track season means many long hours of practice to get into shape. The hard hours spent working out are soon forgotten in the excitement of their first big meet. Then too, they know the fans are on their side rooting for all they are worth.

The many different types of track events include dashes, relays, high and low hurdles, pole vaulting, high jump, shot put, and broad jumping. Many participate in several.

This is one of the many activities which will keep P.H.S. thinclads busy in the spring of our school year.

Ski Team

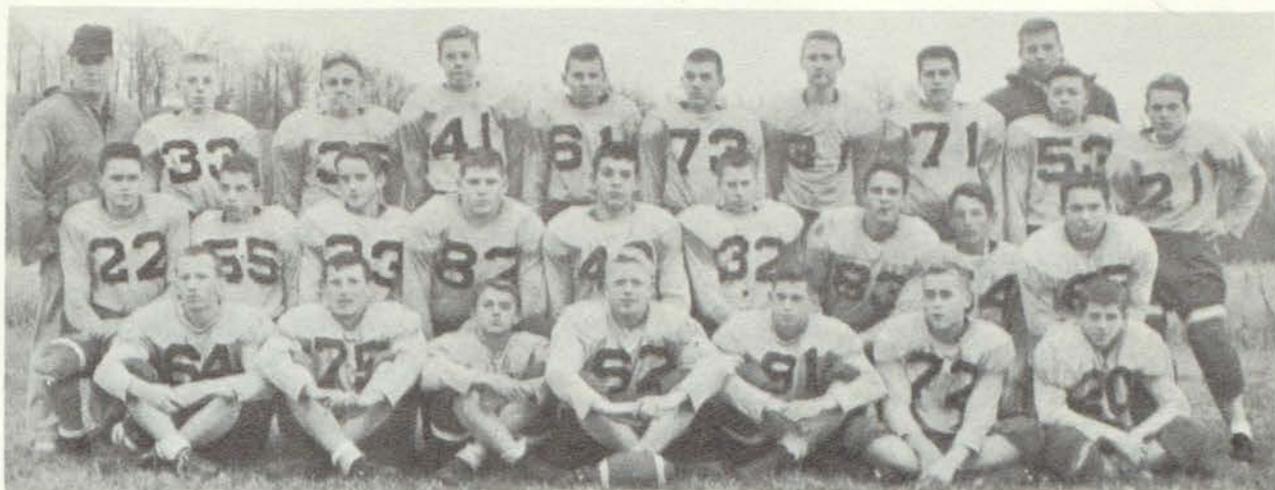

Barbara Burns, Phyllis Pierson, Coach Splan, Carol Bates, Pinky McCutcheon.

Nothing is more beautiful than the graceful, rhythmic movements of a skier. The ski team offers a place for those qualified. Girls are included as well as boys.

Although this is the most recent addition to the field of sports at Petoskey High, the record set by the team is one of the best in the school. It is certainly proof of the many hours of work put in and the enthusiasm each member has for the team.

All of the members are working toward making skiing one of the major sports in school. They are rapidly approaching their goal. Soon this will become a reality.

The junior varsity teams have both put forth much effort this year. They have hammered away at practice day after day and, perhaps, felt they have not received their due amount of credit.

Everyone, however, will agree that we are really proud of our Junior Northmen and feel they held a vital part of the program offered to enhance our school life.

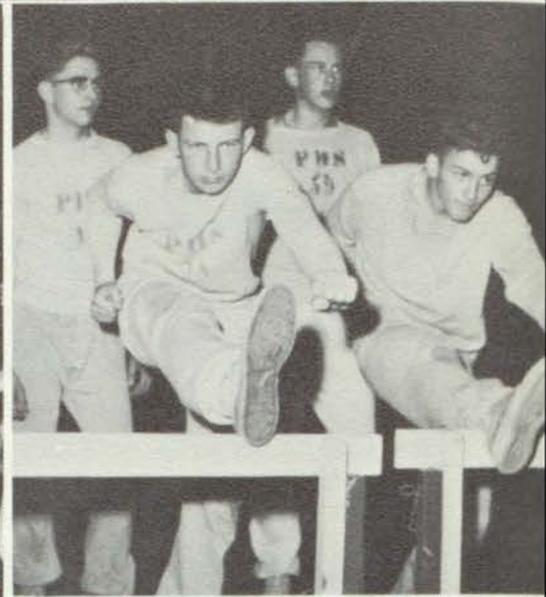

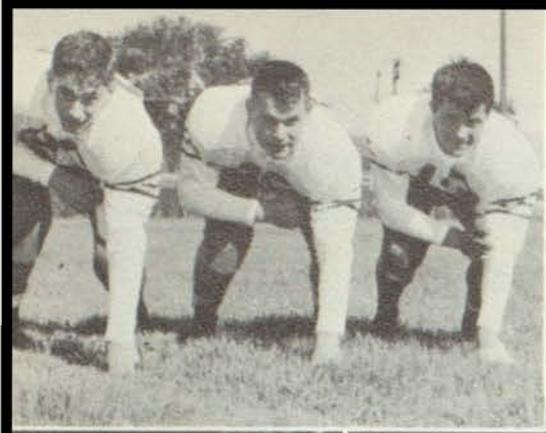

It is here one receives his basic ground work, which will be enriched and added to until, one day, he will reach his goal and attain that most coveted possession, a letter.

As we entered P. H. S. as freshmen, we eagerly anticipated the distinction and prominence that we thought went with the first year in high school. However, our ideas were soon deflated as we realized that this year was only a stepping stone to the years that lay ahead. The major business we attended to was that of choosing class officers. Those elected were: Dick Festerling, president; Gene McGeath, vice-president; and Allen Bachelor as secretary-treasurer.

As sophomores we were on the second flight of stairs leading to the ultimate goal of every student-graduation! To lead us through this year we chose as officers: Jean Whelan, president; Dwayne Swenor, vice-president; and Rita Gasco, secretary-treasurer. Although as a class we had no major tasks to accomplish, the little things we succeeded in doing helped to prepare us for our final two years.

Our junior year dawned and found us on the third flight of steps and we realized with amazement that we were over half way to our goal. We elected as our officers: Greg Marks, president; Dick Smith, vice-president; and Rita Gasco, secretary-treasurer. Our first event was the production of the annual class play, "State Fair". No sooner had we recovered from the tremendous success of the play, than it was time to move on to the J-Hop to which we gave the theme "Pathway to the Stars". The prom was enjoyed by all who attended but it was a special thrill to all those who had devoted so many hours of labor to make it the success that it was. We climaxed the year by sponsoring the Junior-Senior Banquet to honor those whose places we were destined to take.

As seniors we had reached the top of the stairs that we had started to climb those three short years ago. To guide us through this climactic year we elected as officers: Dean Wheaton, president; Richard Festerling, vice-president; and Jerry Rosevear, secretary-treasurer. To provide additional funds for our class treasury we undertook a magazine sale, concessions at games, and bake sales. The majority of these funds was used to present the annual "Petosegan" which we feel gives a wonderful account of our last year at P. H. S. Our senior play "A Murder Has Been Arranged" was well received and well worth the effort it required. We were honored by the Junior class at the annual J-Hop and Junior-Senior Banquet. Then came the class trip to Mackinac Island which was a delight to all. The year was brought to a close by Baccalaureate, Class Night, and finally Commencement. As we accepted the diploma which symbolized the goal we had strived so long to achieve, the many wonderful experiences of these past years were relived in our minds. Now as we separate as a class and prepare to face the future alone, we will always be united by the common bond of memories.

Class of

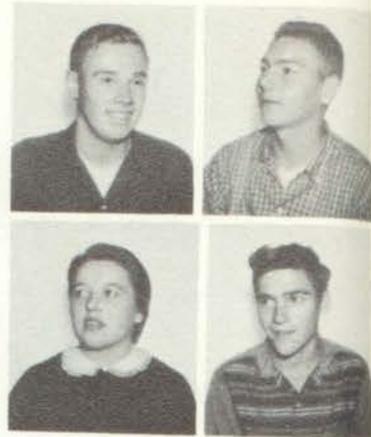

Junior Journeys:

The Juniors have traveled far in their school life, gaining the experience necessary for eventually entering society. Their trip is reaching its destination, although they expectantly look forward to another year in high school and the many opportunities which lie in the pathway ahead.

Possibly the main social events of the school year fall on them as they are the sole sponsors of the J-Hop and the Junior-Senior banquet.

 Sec. Treas. . . . Carol Ranney

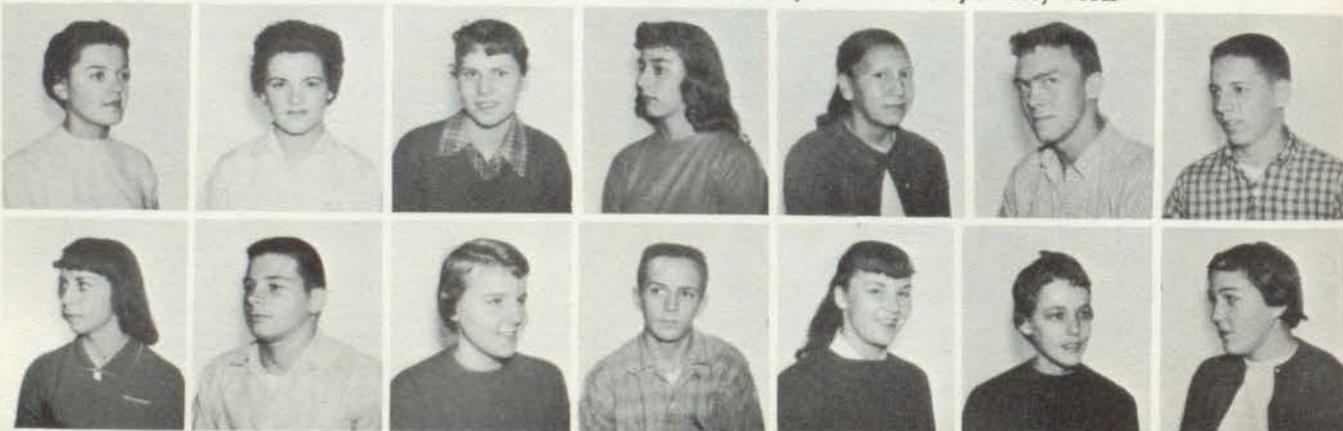

FIRST ROW:

SECOND ROW:

Although the Juniors are caught in the whirl of many new activities, a more serious outlook has been gained this year. The importance of good grades is recognized as many plan on attending colleges and these grades may possibly earn a scholarship for them. The National Honor Society, to which five per cent of the eligible students shall be elected, is a goal in itself.

All in all, this is definitely one of the best years in school. They have passed along the pathways leading to a good education and can now look forward to becoming Seniors.

Sophomore Socializers:

School life is just beginning to unfold this year. Along with the title of Sophomore come more important school activities and responsibilities to which they are now exposed. They are no longer looked upon as "too little", for they have a year's experience behind them.

Probably the most outstanding memory is that of Mrs. Thompson's thousand word theme requirement. The many long hours spent in the library looking up information plus the countless hours consumed in the classroom have left a keen impression on each one's mind. Their only solace is the fact that everyone goes through the same thing, although, this too, has its brighter side. What better excuse is there for getting out of the house than the fact that you must have those notes? The library, however, takes many new and varied forms--Carl's, the "Rec.", Jane's or Johnie's house. . .

Your Sophomore year is certainly a memorable one. As obligations grow, so does prestige. By now you can rightfully feel you are a worthwhile part of our school life.

Frolicking Freshmen:

The Freshmen enter high school looking forward to the glorious adventures which lie ahead. They feel the importance of now being part of the senior high. This represents a big step in their lives which will not be soon forgotten.

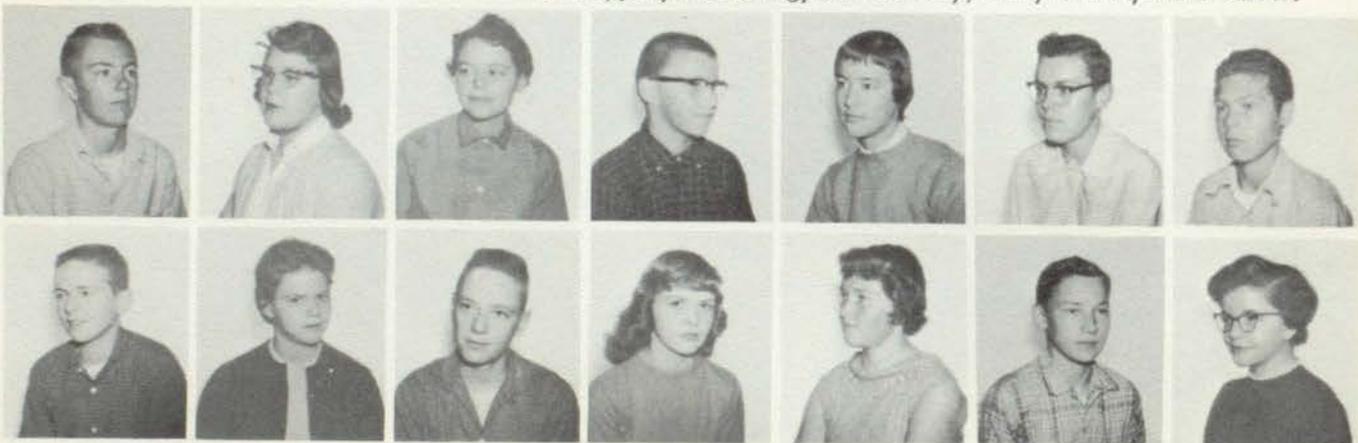

Their first few days are ones of utter confusion. They get lost in the corridors and become orphaned wanderers from their homerooms. This is soon straightened out and they become one of the working parts of the huge machine called a high school.

You will find them actively taking part in all the goings-on. Their enthusiasm is hard to equal. Because of this anxiousness to become one-of-the-gang, they are thrilled by the new fields opened to them now, so they ambitiously advance upon every opportunity. They are bouncing little bundles of energy just looking for some place to explode.

The Freshmen expectantly look forward to the future life which is ahead of them at P.H.S. for they know they shall leave their mark here.
