THE FIRST 200 YEARS

A knowledge of American history is an invitation to experience the accomplishment, drama, tragedy and hope of an infant nation struggling to grow up. Sturdy, determined pioneers hacked away at the edges of a raw continent and, with blunders and achievements alike, modeled a country with a spirited nature and a united commitment to individual liberty for every one of its citizens. Americans, great and not so great, have given us a heritage to carry on and improve upon. Farmers and soldiers, industrialists and merchants, dreamers and leaders, are all there in two centuries of progress.

But the maturing isn't finished. You'll find the boundaries of growth as endless today as when our forefathers first envisioned them. You can seek out your own destiny with the wisdom and judgement which comes with re-creation of the past. Your knowledge, dreams and industry will carry on through many more centuries of living history.

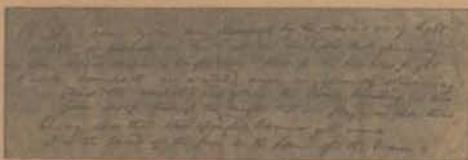

"Everything that is right or reasonable pleads for separation. The blood of the slain, the weeping voice of nature cries, 'tis time to part.'" — Thomas Paine.

CHAPTERS OF AMERICAN HISTORY

The Stamp Act of 1765 was an attempt by England to tax items that were wholly American. The colonists reacted in seething resentment which erupted into angry protestations. The first blood of the American Revolution was spilled during one such incident at Boston in 1770. Several Americans lost their lives over a snowball thrown at a British sentry.

In the fight to achieve commerce equality, the United States found itself in a naval war over shipping lanes. Fort M'Henry was heroically held during a British naval bombardment, and the stars and stripes still flew after a night of hard fighting. The next morning Francis Scott Key penned the immortal words of what would become the national anthem.

Settlers had to have permanent access to the new lands, so canals and bridges were built to carry stages and wagon trains loaded with machinery destined for settlements in the West. The pioneers foresaw great wealth in the cheap acreage that was available.

Frontiersmen cleared the wilderness, built settlements and drove back the Indians. The Pony Express and the telegraph became primary means of communication.

Agriculture was the wealth of the country. American inventions of the time were often related to working the soil. The McCormick Reaper, mowing machines, textile looms and the cotton gin were instrumental in the settling of new frontiers.

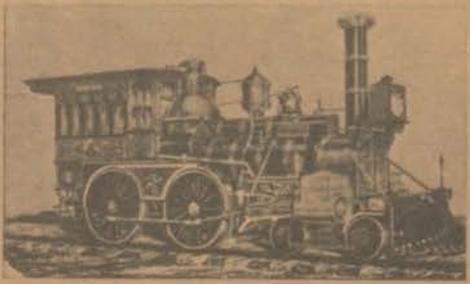

In 1848, James Marshall found gold in the race of a sawmill he was building for John Sutter at Coloma, California. The lust to "get rich quick" was the force behind this biggest and gaudiest gold rush ever.

While "gold rush fever" gripped the country, states were increasingly more divided on the slavery issue. Civil war broke out in the East. This "Brothers War" was bitterly fought and, though the scars remain even today, slavery was abolished.

Cities grew at an alarming pace, often without regard to the limits of safety. The great Chicago fire of 1871 burned the bustling cattle market empire beyond recognition. But the pioneer spirit was not broken. Chicagoans began rebuilding and preparations were underway to celebrate the 100th birthday of the country.

The "Iron Horse," carrying homesteaders, greatly helped settlement of the new country. The first transcontinental railroad connected the country at Promontory Summit, Utah, on May 10, 1869.

Transportation was setting the pattern for the American way of life. The country became a mobile society with electric trolleys, automobiles, farm machinery, and bicycles, all the rage. Along with the accessibility of travel came a new era of nationalism.

A World War called upon the nation's young men to unite and fight. After the war in Europe, the nation pulled itself together and industry flourished once again. A carefree America buried war memories in the new moving pictures, telephones, light bulbs, electric generators, stock market ticker tape machines, phonographs and a wealth of inventions from the fertile minds of its young inventors. Baseball became the national sport and prohibition was law.

Black Thursday, October 24, 1929, saw the American stock market crash to the lowest level in history. Panic set in as the unemployment level skyrocketed. The country was in its worst economic crisis. Slowly, but surely, the wounds of the "crash," the "dust bowl," and poverty healed.

The steel industry geared up for the revival while rumors were whispered in the Roosevelt administration of another impending war. The nation's leaders scoffed; until December 7, 1941 - Pearl Harbor!

Industrial production reached a peak during the war years. Upon their return from four years of battle, the veterans forged ahead with an eye on a "better life for everyone." Several moderate recessions in the 50's and 60's reminded cautious citizens of past decades.

Huge strides were being taken in the scientific field. Television became a part of every family's life. National events were household topics - while they happened - thanks to the new medium. Individuals and groups were seen "on the tube" as they advocated new social reform, or justice, or special causes of their own. TV gave individuals and political systems power greater than ever before. Audio-visual journalism had made its impact.

Nearly 100 years of struggling for civil liberties were realized when President Lyndon Baines Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 into law. The Act outlawed segregation in any form.

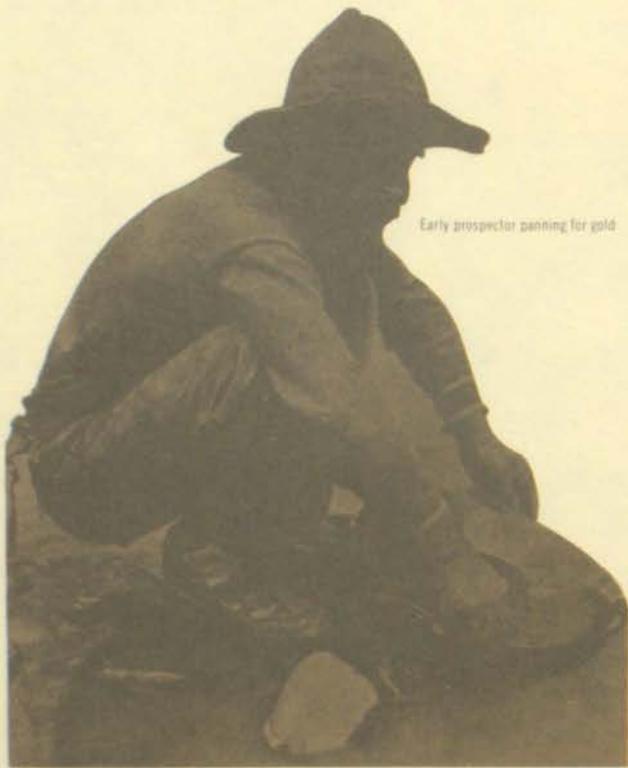

The seventies shed light on a new trouble for the nation as it approached its 200th birthday. The world's energy sources and natural resources were being used up faster than they could be replenished. Americans once again waded into a new frontier. The "energy crisis" and "ecology" were prominent words in the language. Ways to save nature from the neglect of mankind and ways of preserving precious fuel without damaging that balance of nature were the objectives of Americans across the country.

Earth's crises spurred Americans into further pioneering. This time - outer space. American astronauts were the first on the surface of the moon and the U.S. was first to build a "sky-lab" for more scientific study.

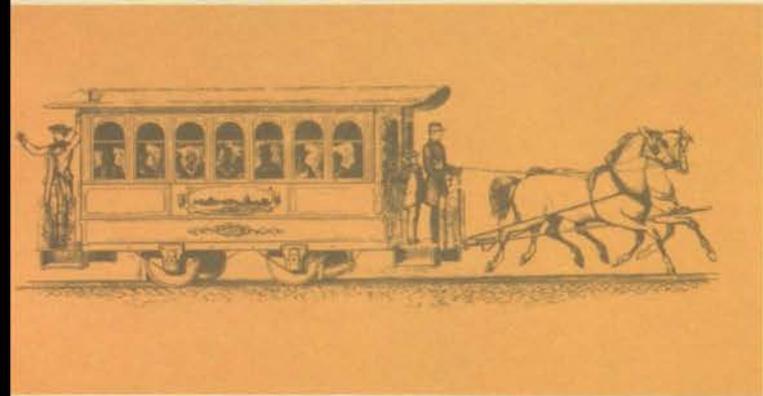

Americans are still learning and growing after a mere 200-year infancy. The original determination of our forefathers was told again in the words of Neil Armstrong as he made the first step on the moon - "a small step for man, but a giant step for mankind."

THE CHANGING NATION

Ownership of land had been just a dream to most of the colonists from feudal England. With the great expanse of cheap land opening up in the West, the dream became reality.

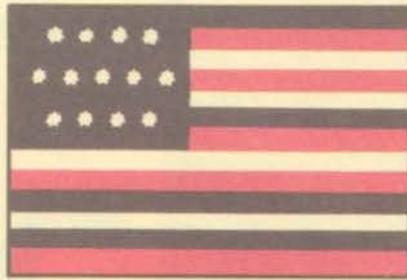

The Louisiana Purchase of 1803 opened the first sizable frontier in the Midwest, but the nation was not ready for it yet. It took a growing market in the East, where land was getting high-priced and scarce, and development of good transportation, to really start the frontier movement.

The Gold Rush caused hordes of settlers to take various routes to the Pacific Coast and its yellow riches. The railroads brought farmers and ranchers, along with the miners, who decided to stop all along the routes and build their homes. Railroads were instrumental in the quick civilization of the West, bringing people in numbers so large that the resentful Indians were finally pushed back into unwanted and infertile areas.

America became a haven for immigrants from every nation as freedom beckoned them to the teeming cities of the East, the plains, and the rich west coast farmlands.

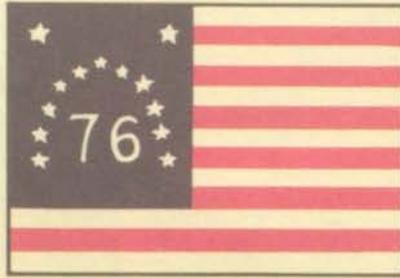

Sick of the Civil War and with their own lands divided up and lost, many Southerners set out to "begin again" in the virgin territories. "Westering" soon became the national tradition as North and South moved together toward a new life. Americanism was advanced socially, by the hard-working, bare-fisted types who settled the frontiers.

NECESSITY IS THE MOTHER OF ...

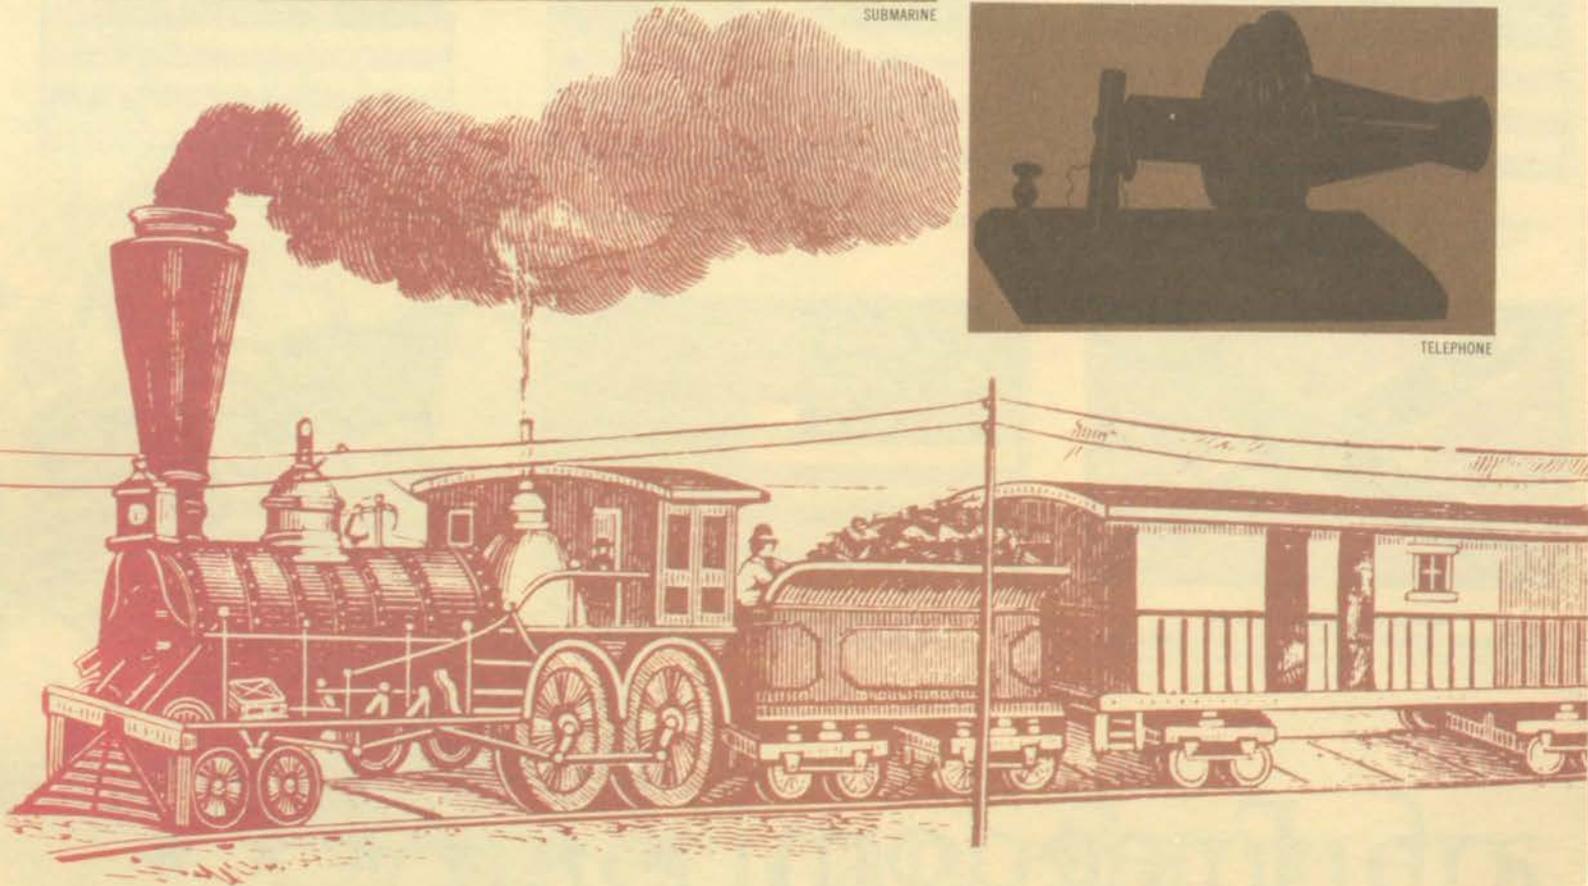

SUBMARINE

COTTON GIN (Model)

Without realizing it, England instilled in the colonists the individual purpose and ingenuity that necessity breeds. With trade goods cut to a minimum, determined young leaders of the time set out to find ways of surviving without support from the Mother Country.

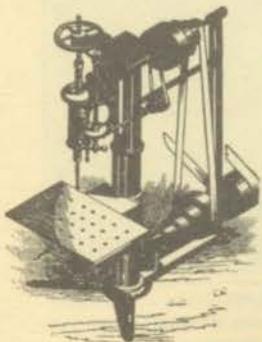

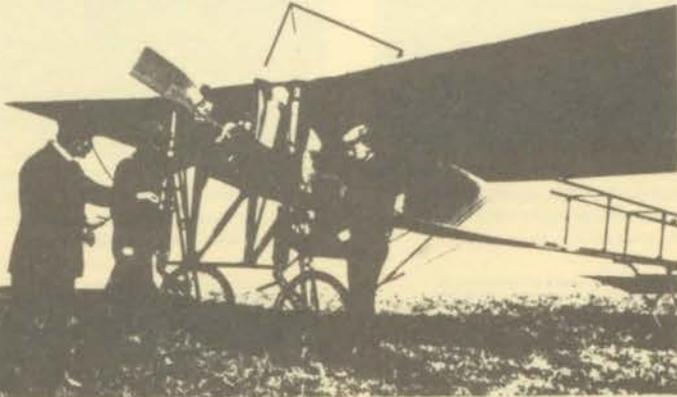

Agricultural methods and machines and labor saving devices were designed by our forefathers. As frontiers opened, Yankee genius had to conquer natural barriers in the wild new country, so suspension bridges were invented and methods of transportation were perfected for the purpose of opening the untamed areas. Later, they sought to section off the land with the revolutionary and controversial invention — barbed wire.

Cooper's 1-horsepower Tom Thumb train in 1830 and later, automobiles like the first Model T, and the 4-horsepower airplane; became American modes of travel from city to city and coast to coast.

Americans knew that the fertile lands of this nation would produce unequalled harvests if machines were designed to take over for man. They knew also that trade routes were difficult to travel and manufacturing would have to be done close to home. The cotton gin, textile looms, drill presses and a reaper which could cut six times as much grain as a hand scythe were some of the tools invented.

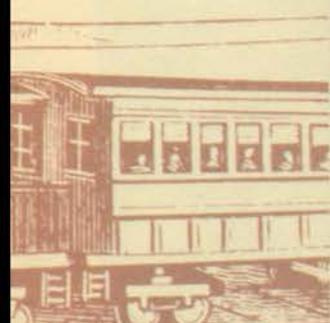

Protection for themselves and for their young country prodded inventors like Eli Whitney to perfect firearms and others to work on plans for the first submarine. Young inventors like Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Edison (called the nation's most valuable citizen) visualized machines that would light the country and open up communication with those in the far corners of the nation. The telephone, telegraph, phonograph and the first light bulb were discovered in the late 1800's and early twentieth century. This American way of doing for oneself inspired many to become inventors in their own right. Some sought to save labor and mass-produce for profit while others envisioned not only riches, but excitement and adventure as they discovered ways to defy nature.

Throughout the past 200 years the American mind has been unleashed to take whatever paths necessary to fulfill the needs. In the last half-century, the pace of discovery has been overwhelming and inventions for the taming of the universe lie in the grasp of America while the habit of "finding a way" is ingrained in its people. The seeds of industrial America were sown by these inventors resulting in today's mechanized society.

THEY MADE THEIR MARK

Men and women who helped shape America's history

THOMAS PAINE, a bankrupt Quaker corsetmaker, sometime teacher, preacher and grocer wrote the most brilliant pamphlet of the American Revolution. His words in Common Sense reflected longings and aspirations that have remained part of American culture to this day.

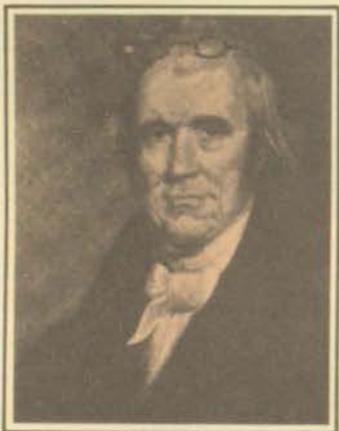

DANIEL WEBSTER chose law as a career and went on to become well-known in the courts and in politics. He was twice Secretary of State with an eye always to the Presidency which eluded him.

DOROTHEA DIX worked her entire adult life for reform of the existing penal and mental institutions in the mid-1800's. The first state hospital in the nation at Trenton, New Jersey was a direct result of her efforts.

The creator of the Cherokee alphabet, SEQUOYAH, was an artist, writer and silversmith. He used a simple 1821 English primer to compose the characters. The famous redwood trees of the Pacific coast bear his name.

Chief Justice JOHN MARSHALL established fundamental principles of American constitutional law. He is noted for his precedential declaration of a Congressional act as unconstitutional. He served through five administrations, from 1801-1835.

Born a slave in Maryland, FREDERICK DOUGLASS taught himself to read and write secretly and, at 21, escaped to freedom. He was an ardent abolitionist campaigning successfully for Negro suffrage and civil rights.

"The New Colossus," a sonnet composed by EMMA LAZARUS in 1883 is inscribed on a bronze tablet at the base of the Statue of Liberty. She organized relief for Jews and helped fugitives from the Czar's ghettos to establish homes in America.

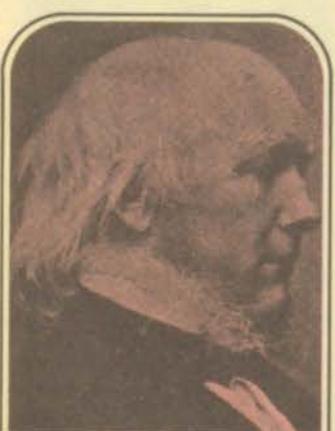

AMELIA JENKS BLOOMER, best known for a mode of dress she adopted during her campaign for equal rights for women. Though ridiculed until she gave up the costume, the term "bloomer" came to symbolize woman's bid for individual freedom.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN epitomized the American dream of a humble young man ascending to the highest office of the land. He was superbly skilled at analyzing complex issues and translating them into meaningful words for the public. He was devoted to the preservation of the Union.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE wrote Uncle Tom's Cabin in an effort to make the whole nation realize the inhumanity of slavery. Her book resulted in one of the most popular and controversial plays on the American stage. The Civil War was kindled by this work.

HORACE GREELEY'S admonition to "Go West young man" was a rallying cry of the pioneers of America. He was founder and editor of the New York Tribune. He was best known for his philosophy of social reform and his unsuccessful bid for the Presidency in 1872.

JOSEPH PULITZER was the first journalist to reach a truly massive audience. His New York World newspaper was the symbol of "yellow journalism" with its sensationalism aimed at the common man.

ANDREW CARNEGIE was a giant in the railroad and steel industries. He believed that it was the duty of a rich man to distribute his wealth during his lifetime. To that end, he established 2800 libraries and many cultural halls throughout America.

A lifetime passion for machinery led HENRY FORD to Detroit where, in 1896, he completed his first motor vehicle. The Ford Motor Company manufactured the first "Model T" in 1909.

One of the most elementary symbols of the American way of life was established when J. EDGAR HOOVER and his Federal Bureau of Investigation "G-men" set out to clean up the country. His career spanned over 40 years.

The motion-picture industry was revolutionized in America and DAVID WARK GRIFFITH became known as the "Father of the film art" and "king of directors" for his part in this revolution. His camera techniques were the pioneering steps of the industry.

Serving an unprecedented four terms as President of the United States, FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT was a popular leader who made extensive use of fireside radio chats to explain his plans and generate enthusiasm to push them through Congress.

ROBERT FROST's poetry was clear, understated, well-metered and told the stories of rural America. He was a four-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize and has been called America's poet laureate.

A plain, homely woman with tremendous appeal to the masses, who was always in the "thick of things," describes ELEANOR ROOSEVELT and her lifetime of politicking beside her husband during his four terms.

THURGOOD MARSHALL is the first Negro to serve as a justice of the Supreme Court. His law career was aimed primarily at civil rights cases.

The crippling poliomyelitis was conquered by DR. JONAS SALK in 1953 after more than 25 years of research. Polio was reduced by 96% in less than ten years. SALK's research continues in California at the Salk Institute.

MARTIN LUTHER KING was a leader in the cause of civil rights. He had been a pastor before turning to the cause of segregation. His leadership earned him the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964. He was assassinated by James Earl Ray in 1968.

Lieutenant Colonel JOHN GLENN started America's travels to outer space when he became the first American to orbit the earth. He had been an aviator in World War II and a test pilot in peacetime.

GERALD R. FORD, the first President to achieve the office without an election. In 1974, through a series of scandalous events, the Nixon administration toppled and FORD reached the position through approval by Congress.

RELIEF for the DISTRESSED and PAIN for the WOUNDED is found in PERRY DAVIS'S VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER. Manufactured by PERRY DAVIS & SON, No. 24 NINE STREET, PROVISIONS, N. Y.

COTTON. BALPA Cotton just landed from brig Yellow Bird.

Imagine buying that acre of land you have spotted for $1.25! Or, even at the higher price of $10. Those are the prices offered to our founding fathers to encourage settlement of the wilderness areas of this nation.

A stage wasn't the most comfortable way to go, but you could get from city to city for as little as $3 — at the amazing pace of six miles per hour.

Compare today's wages with a 12-hour day in the early 1800's. A man earned 50¢ a day. Of course his dollar bought a little more than today's. Butter in 1826 was about 5¢ lb. in the Midwest; eggs, 3¢ doz.; corn 6¢ bu., wheat, 25¢ bu.; and a cow could be bought for $5.

With travel becoming the American tradition, you could choose train, wagon, horseback or the water. A canal ride, with bed and board included, averaged 3 or 4¢ per mile. And when you reached your destination, you could sit down to a 5, or even 10 course meal for 25¢. (Ladies 20¢, in consideration of appetite.)

Farmers in the early 1800's could own the famous McCormick Reaper for a mere $100. But the Civil War increased prices as the machine became the first item farmers could buy on time payments for the sum of $1,500.

A good suit of clothes then might cost $1.95 and ladies waists (blouses) were marketed for 49¢ to $3.50 with a whole dress pattern priced at 15¢.

Cookstoves, "quality-satisfaction guaranteed," could cost you $29.25 at $4 per month and a dandy heating stove could set you back as much as $5.73 and up. The first electric refrigerator cost $900 — which might be enough to make you faint on your 1907 fainting couch that had cost a mere $7.85.

Your new baby travelled in the height of fashion in a wicker sleeping coach (stroller) for the sum of $12.04. If you had $1,500 in 1903 you could show off in one of the first automobiles.

Ah, those were the days. Some of the current prices are reminiscent of those days, but at frontier prices, which were a whole different story. Hardy pioneers had to pay $2 a pound for sugar, too. And the same for a pound of coffee or pepper. Those items were only 15¢ per pound back in civilized St. Louis. Flour was marked up 100 times for sale to the frontiersmen and during the famous Gold Rush, that precious commodity went for $400 a barrel.

THE above Bedsteads are put together without a screw, and by means of the Windlass and Swelled Beam, the Bedding is kept crowning and elastic at all times with the least possible trouble, which is impossible to obtain in those made any other way.

Also, a great variety of ornaments and materials for interior decoration, executed in hand and Upholstery Work of every description executed with neatness, promptness and dispatch, by J. In addition to the ordinary attractions of a Museum, there is in this very large collection of the Portraits of American Statesmen and Warriors of the Revolution, and of the most distinguished scientific men of Europe and America.

LIFE

Life is a path to be walked down; sometimes with others, sometimes alone. On this path there are places to laugh, places to cry, places to remember, places to forget, places to love, places to hate, places for joy and places for sorrow. This path starts at a place called birth and its destination is death.

There is nothing that can't be found along this path. On this path there will always be places to meet others and on this path, others should be met. The mind should always be kept open to others on this path and so, too, should the heart be.

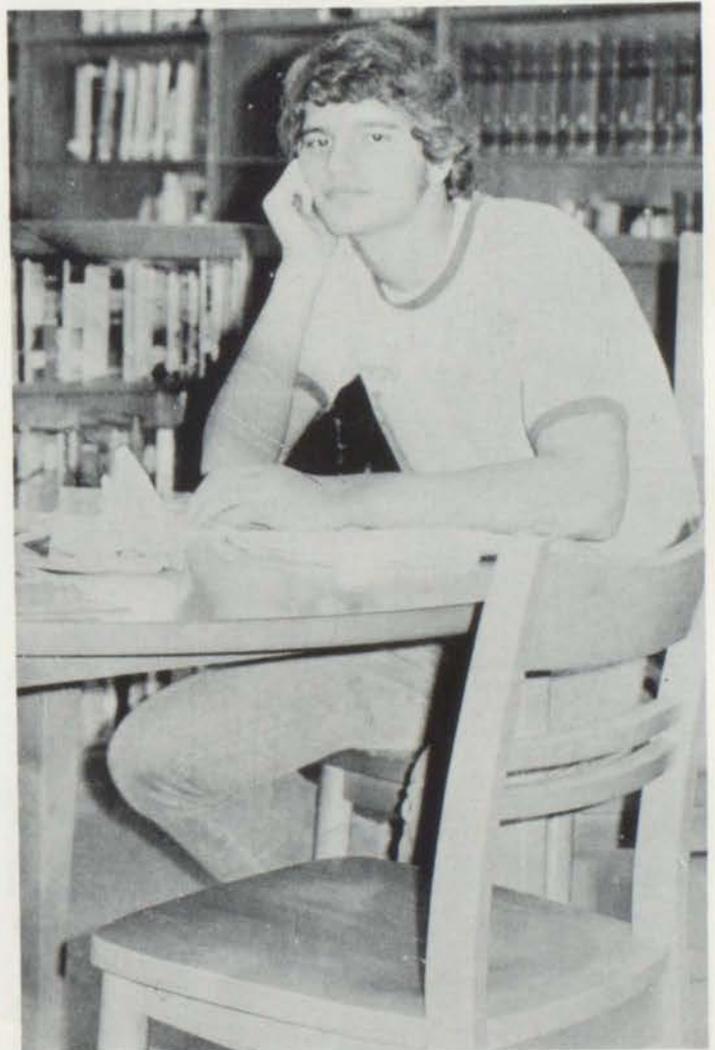

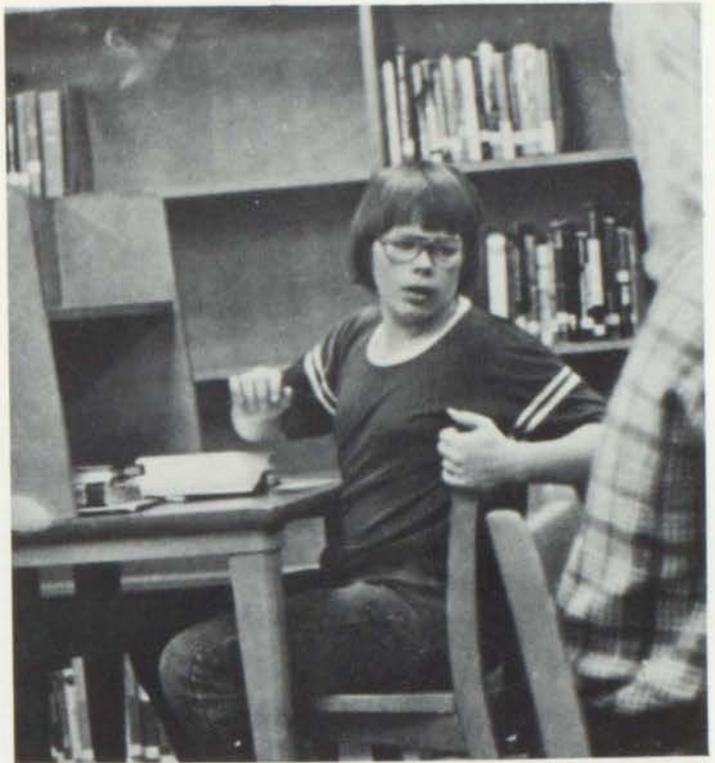

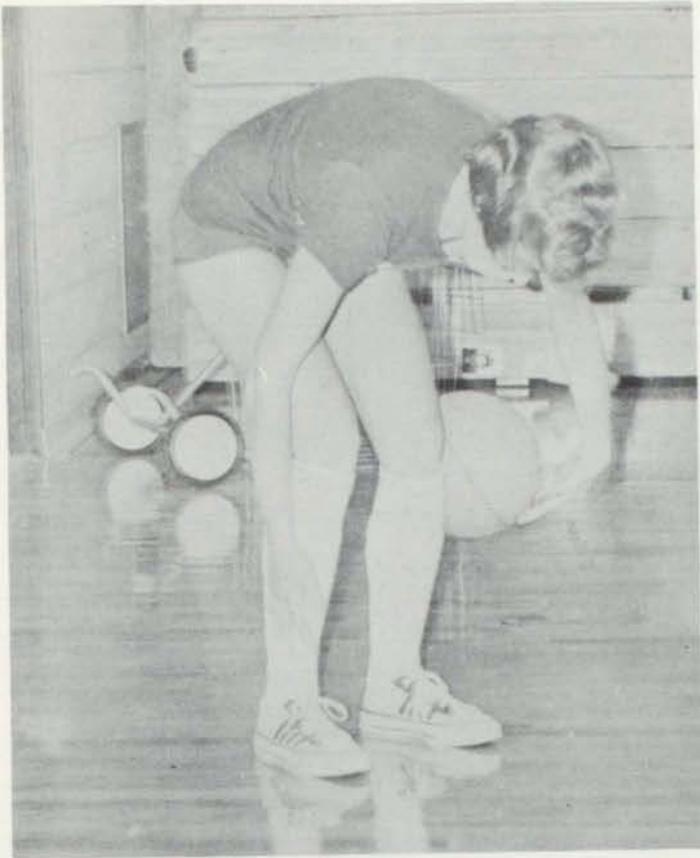

Through the meeting of others and the experiencing of their thoughts, feelings, and moods, the path of life will continually branch out and become more complete.

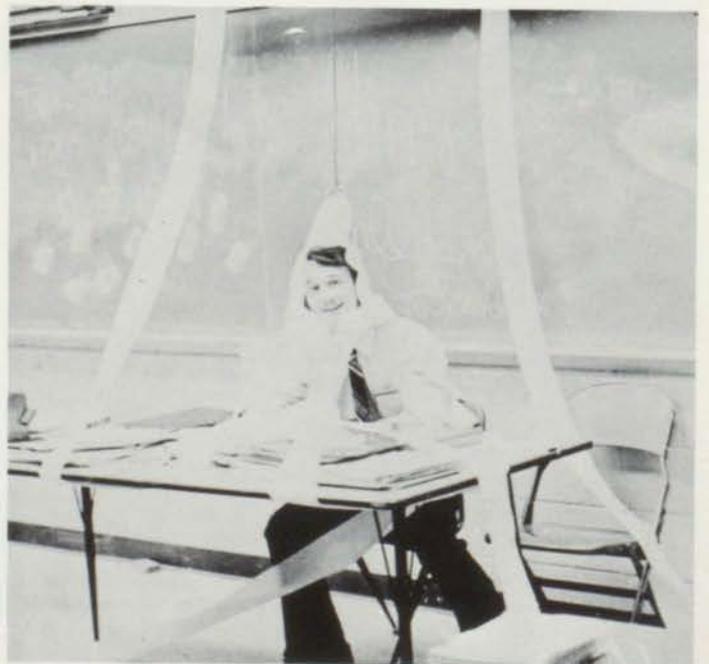

All of this, then, is the purpose of life to me . . .

. . . to experience everything possibly to be found on this path.

OUR MICHIGAN

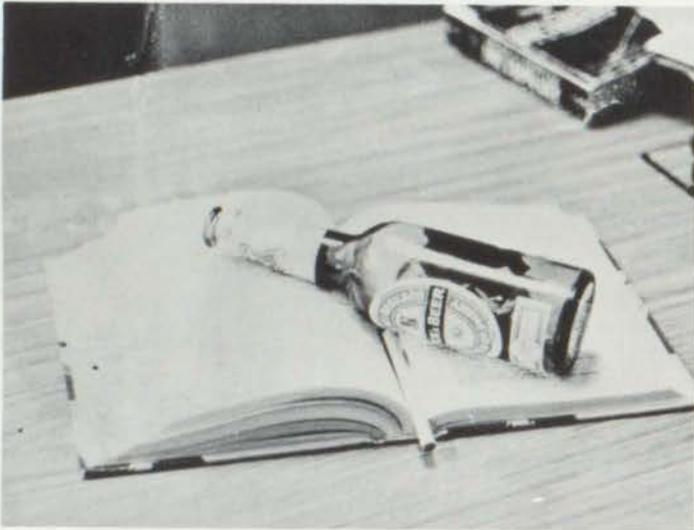

Hillsides covered with spruce and pine,
Where elm and maple the roadsides line,
Sky blue waters where fish abound,
Where cottontail rabbit and deer are found,
Where game birds fly over shimmering grain,
And orchards blossom in gentle rain,
Where Petoskey fell off a hill,
Jewel of the north that is there still,
If you can see this as we can,
You are in our Michigan.

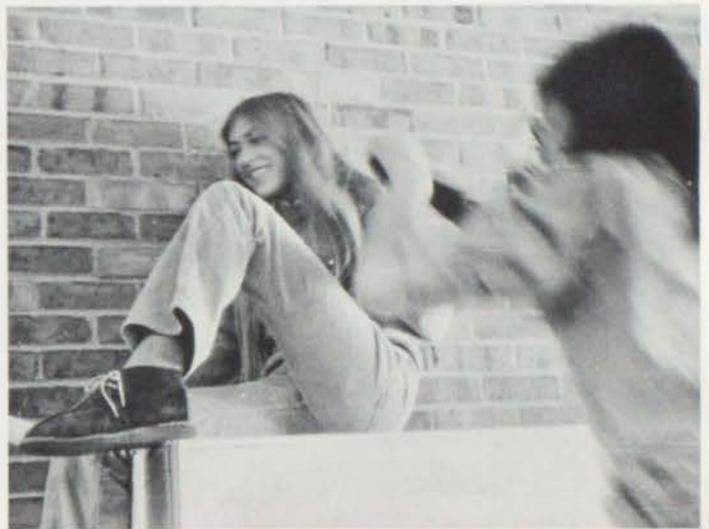

Where cities glisten in the sun,
Where happy children play and run,
Where factories grind out stubborn steel,
That give the world the wing and wheel,
Arsenal of democracy,
Ever ready to keep us free,
Where scholars learn and great men plan,
Where brotherhood works hand in hand,
If you can see this as we can,
You are in our Michigan.

Our loving God of Heaven above,
On that certain day wore a glove,
Gently lowered down His hand,
Made an inprint on the land.
We were also in His plan,
He planted us in Michigan,
Our Home, Our State, Our Michigan.

HOME COMING IS . . .

The first big night that begins the string of social events that go on throughout the school year. Though it started to rain shortly before half time, and poured straight through from then on, it didn't dampen the spirits of the Northmen who did the Gaylord Blue Devils in with a score of 48-0. The queen and her court smiled with honor from being chosen by their classmates, as the rain soaked their dresses and dragged the curls from their hair. The dance afterwards changed the pace of the evening when the band turned out to have a knack for country western music, and even if it didn't turnout to be a starry-eyed evening, everyone could at least go away with a laugh . . .

Martha Case with a firm grip on??
(Harvey Briggs maybe?!?)

Dropping the props and forgetting lines were just a part of the fun that made the play a fantastic experience for everyone. Though we noticed the mistakes they were quickly corrected and the audience was easily fooled.

Carol Benten and Pat Fin played Guenevere and Lancelot for two nights and Val Thompson played opposite Brian Mulvaney on the other night. The audience roared with laughter over Mike Water's portrayal of Pellinore, the eccentric knight, while Gerry Wilson played a convincingly horrid Mordred, the villain.

The list is endless of the well cast main parts, along with the chorus and set crew. A special thanks has to be extended to Mrs. Miller and Lorna Secrest for their job with the costumes and to Ms. Walker and everyone of the kids who helped do such a fantastic and realistic job on the scene props.

Whatever else can be said about the play will be sure to include the round voices who say they can't wait to do it all again, and maybe even more inspiring are the number of new people hoping for their chance at participating next year.

Sneaking a drink behind the counter?

In its sophomore year the class of '78 didn't do as well as it could have. In our class there was a general feeling of apathy that grew throughout the year. Our big money making project, the magazine sale, didn't do well because of lack of interest and participation. We also had two dances and concession stands that did do well because a few people worked really hard.

After being class president for one year I know how frustrating it can be when a good idea comes to you but you can't get anyone to support it. In the future if the class of '78 is going to accomplish anything the class officers will have to spark new enthusiasm in their fellow students.

Drawing out a flight plan.

. . . Think of Me as Your Friend

The Juniors had a somewhat successful year this year. We had our successes and shortcomings. We managed to pull together to make some money and have fun. Last fall our major projects were our float, and our Candy Sale, which made a good profit. A fun-filled Christmas dance, a concession, and a few bake sales all added a little more to the treasury. We also started a calender featuring some super drawings by Juniors, but we weren't able to get them produced in time, so the drawings will be used in a calendar that will be published for 1977. Our highlight of the year was the Prom at Boyne Mountain. We worked hard to make it a memorable one. We didn't really develop our full potential this year. We again found that the class is run by a few workers. I wish we could give enough thanks to those hard workers, and get more people into the swing of things. Hopefully everyone will function a little better as a class in our Senior year, making it the most rewarding year ever.

To Everyone

Thank you for sharing part of your life with me. You have made my life more meaningful. You have helped me grow. But I am not going to say goodbye to you. Saying goodbye would be like not believing in tomorrow. I believe we will share again. In memory, thought, or words our paths will meet. That is my wish. That after we have gone our ways for awhile, we will return to share life again.

i don't need only one person to make my life complete.
i need more than a million people
as special as you.
i will not be afraid because your ideas are different than mine.

i won't be turned away because you are an athlete, an actor, a scholar, a musician, a boy,
or a girl. i want to know of your past achievements and your hopes for the future.

i might reach out to you first,
because i want to know you now
to celebrate life with you, to unfold our dreams together.
your being alive adds color to my life, and i would not be happy if the rainbow came in only one color.

I'm ready for you world!
Here I come.
I'm all grad-e-ated.
This is it.
I'm eager to meet new
People and face unexpected
Challenges. I have horizons
To discover and distant
Lands to travel to.
I want to experience
Some ways of life that are Different from mine . . .
But I'm bringing all
My old friends with me, o.k. ?

Future Senior

Seniors most often think of this year as being the best year in High School, maybe because it's the last, or possibly, because it was quite productive. Although we started out slowly, we accomplished a great deal. All in all, I think everyone will look back on this year, and all 4 years, with great memories. Good luck for the next 4 years and all the rest.

Paul Huybrechts
Senior Class President.

Graduation . . .

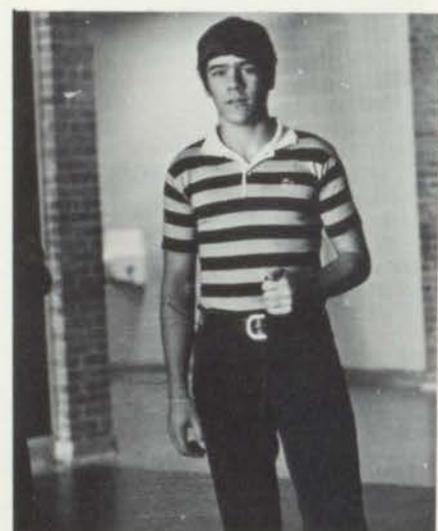

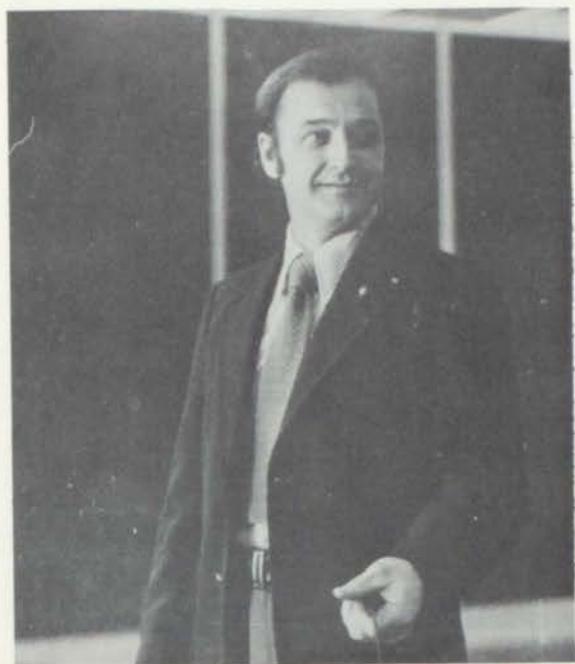

Self Photo . . .

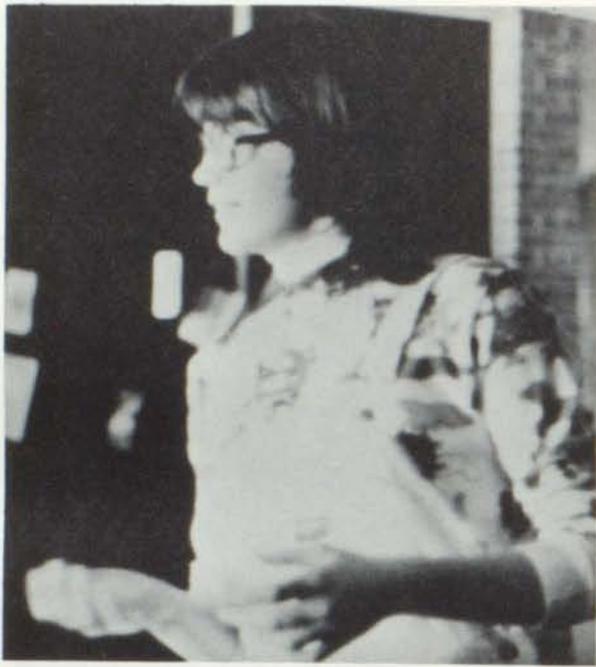

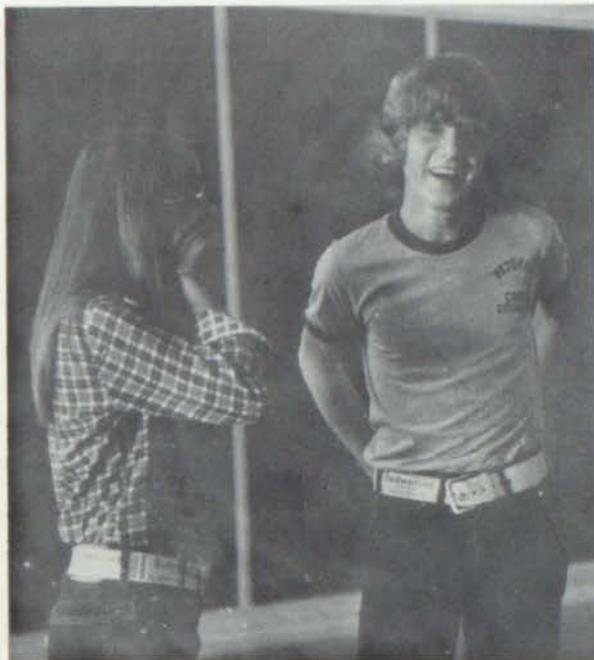

There are always a few people who complain that our cameras never seem to capture their smiling faces on film. As a result, they never get their pictures on the pages of our yearbook. This year our staff gave every member of PHS a chance to put a shot of their own mug in the yearbook. It was a chance to be "just you" for our cameras.

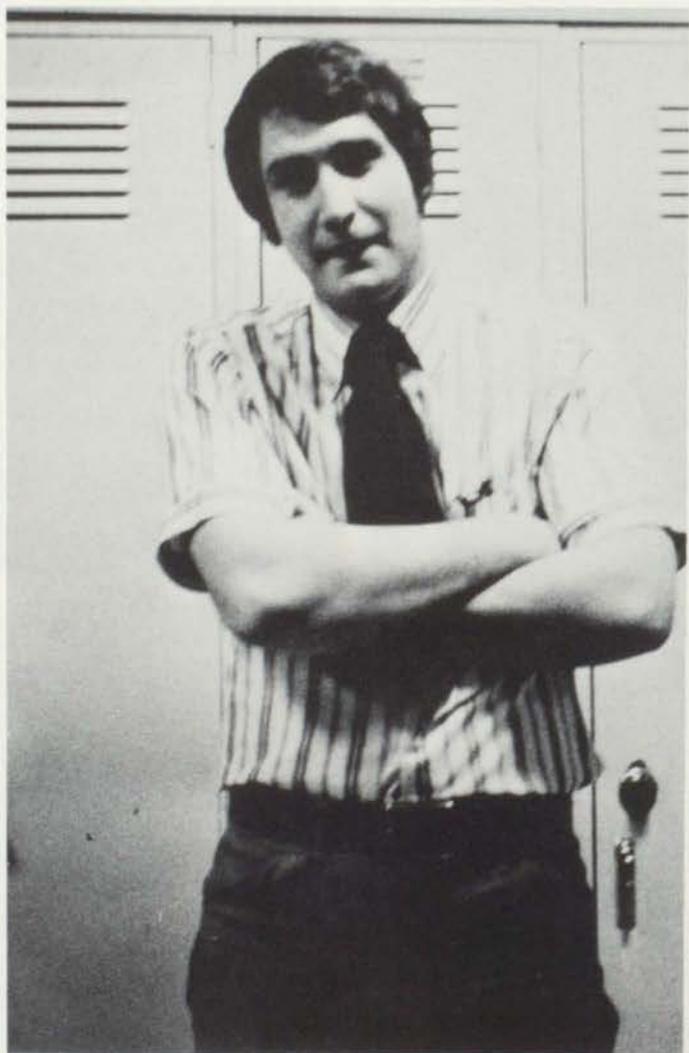

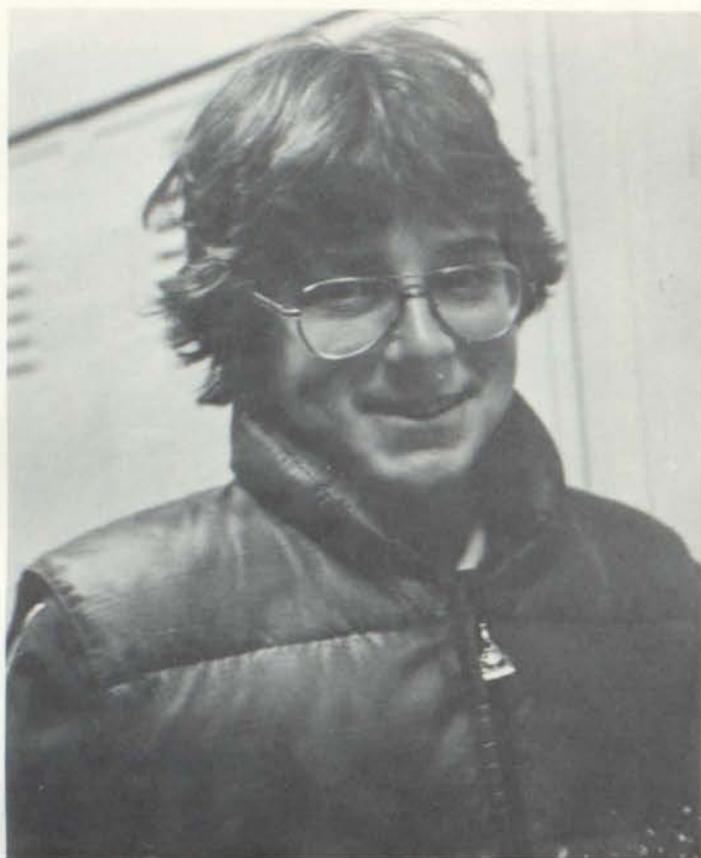

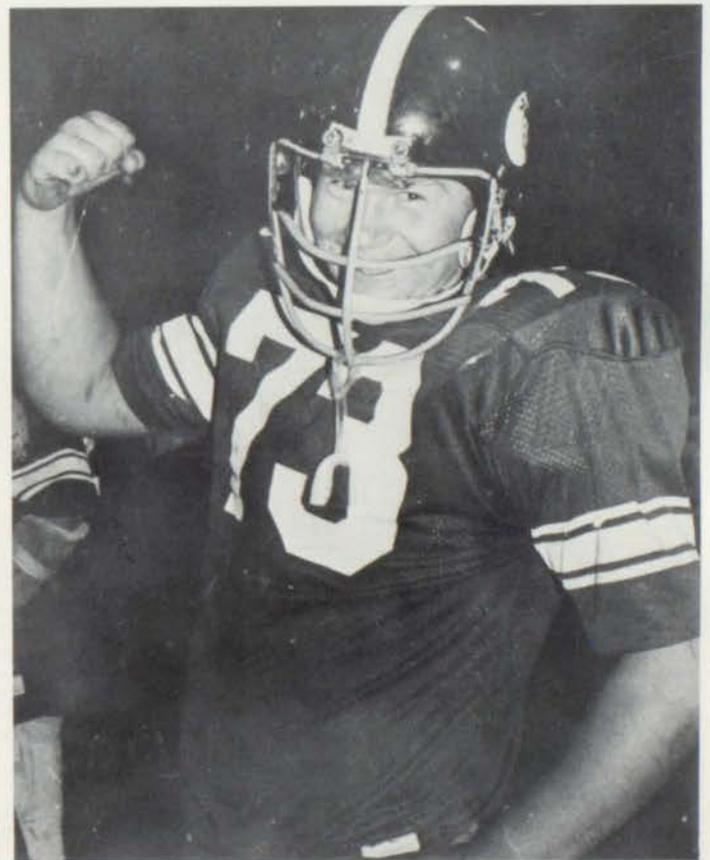

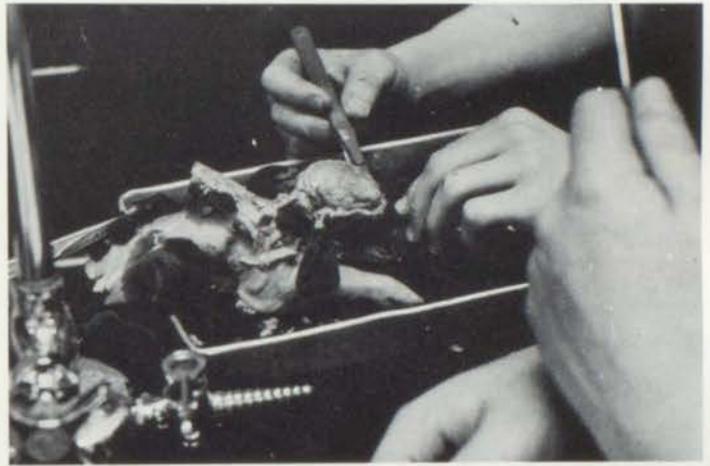

A Chance to Be "Just You."

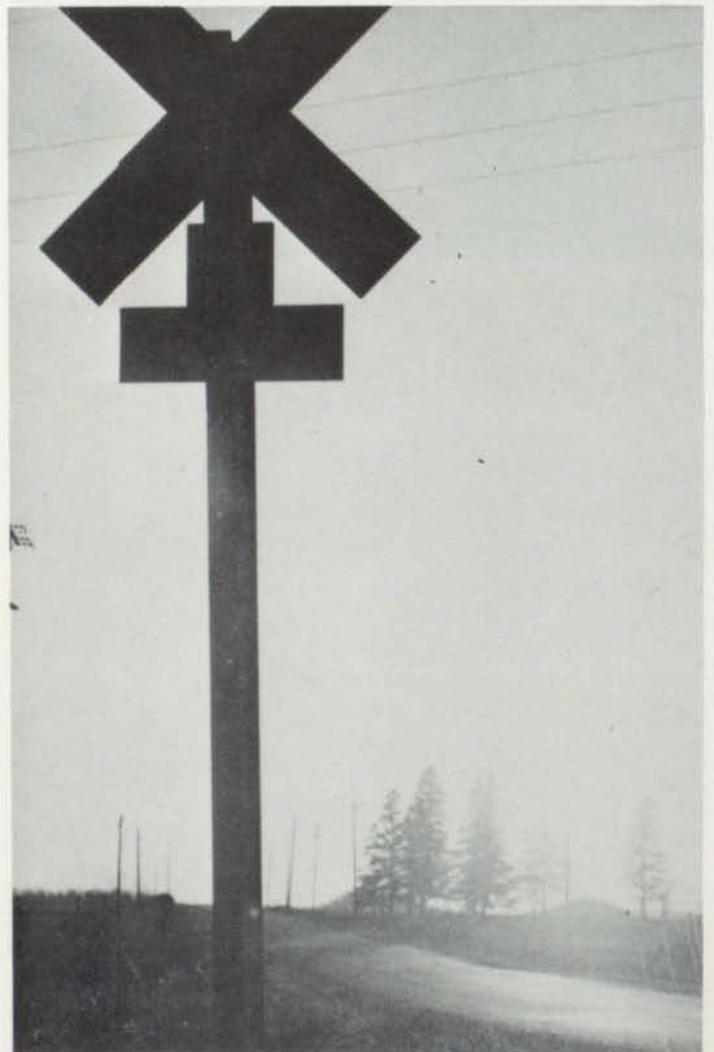

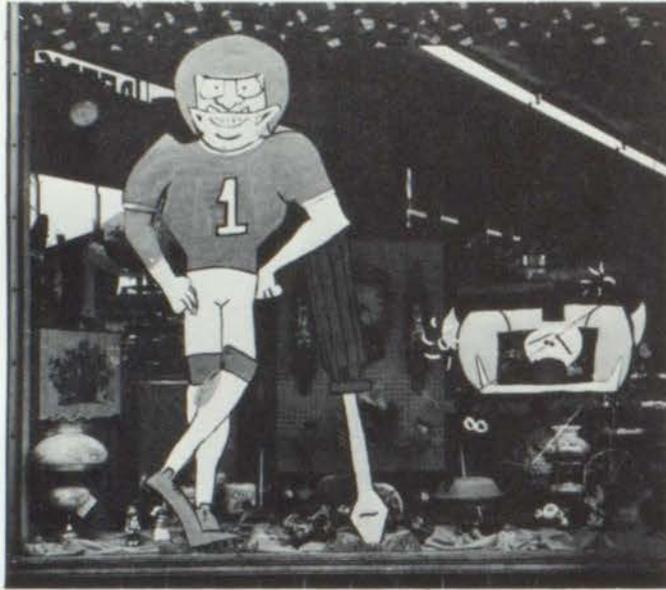

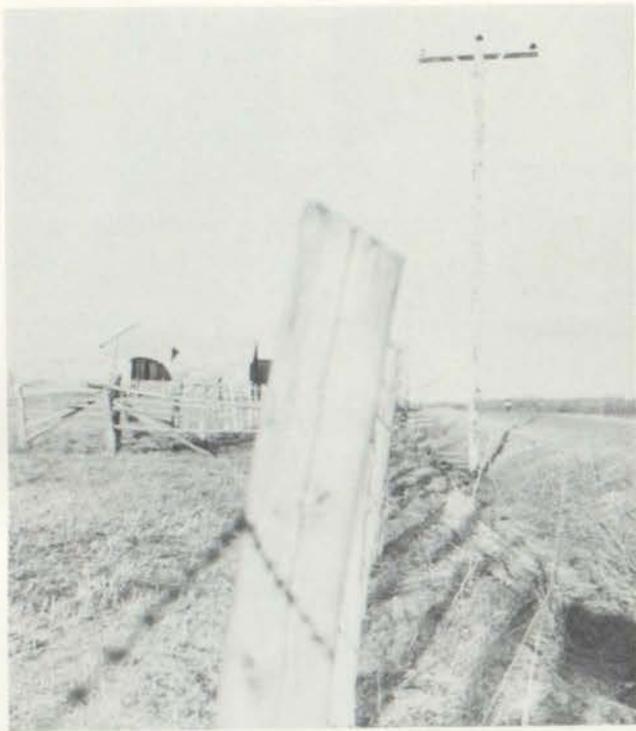

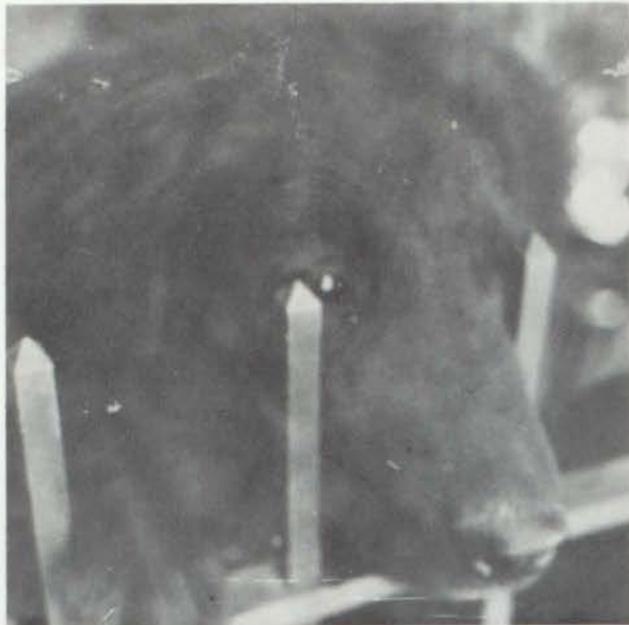

This year has been like a kaleidoscope; so many nuance to its instances and its moments . . . of knowing and finding out about others . . . at the same time, a re-discovery trip of your own . . . of learning how to accept, to tolerate and to radiate your warmth . . . to be honest and sensitive to people.

Amidst all the ordeals, laughters, deprecations and anticipations, I reaped the golden harvest of all these experiences with you. Dare I venture to suggest that you gleaned as much as I did from them?

Every being who smiled or said "HI" did mould my life and did touch upon my soul . . . for every act and second is a nurturing force of our lives. Like an onward traveler, I set on my journey through this world, --I may not think of you every day or every hour but I will recollect these thoughts, unpredictably in some place, in some time, in some instances . . . and I do thank you people out there for letting me grow and learn from our encounters.
