New Dimensions

All of the completed renovations within PHS led to a brand new school. The new library, an extended cafeteria, a new counselor's office and a new gym were some of the many additions to the building. However, the building was not the only aspect that went through changes. Advisories were formed and many rules were modified. Students had to stay in the cafeteria and commons area during lunch, as an alternative to sitting in The Pit. However, the atmosphere was changed for the better. The Petoskey High School, as a whole, dealt with:

■ The student body encountered many changes at PHS. The new locker arrangement gave students a unique challenge to make new friends and get comfortable with different surroundings. Instead of being arranged by class, the students' lockers were assigned by advisory. Although a few sacrifices had to be made, the students at PHS received many privileges. With the opening of the new gym, more seating was available for fans. Another parking lot was also formed, allowing more students to drive to school.

The new library also accommodated many students. A commons area was added to the cafeteria, where benches and tables were placed. This area held many socializing students. Student life continued to prosper inside and outside the school. Students continued to attend classes, partake in school spirit and keep an overall positive attitude. They realized the numerous changes and challenges handed to them and rose above it all.

Games are — Messy

get out of class to be covered in pudding?

"I've never laughed so hard in my life as the day they threw pudding all over the freshmen."
-Chris Deery (03)

After a week of spirit days, the court was playing games in front of the student body. When suddenly, the pudding they were playing in was tossed all over the audience. The Homecoming court: Carol Crosby, Sarah Foltz, Julie Kimball, Rebecca Gabrick, Andrea Knibbs, James Baker, Kory Ciesielski, Jae Green, Donovan Irish, and Christopher Sciamanna were covered from head to toe in the pudding.

During the parade, the court, floats, and spectators on Mitchell St. were under a light drizzle. However, the rain didn't stop the football team from winning. They beat Traverse City Central 18-12.

"We hit a lot of things correct this game; we did what we set out to do," stated Dave Farris, Varsity Football coach. During half-time the band and colorguard performed West Side Story, before James Baker and Andrea Knibbs were announced King and Queen.

The dance was held in the new cafeteria with a Hollywood theme. Jamie Daly (02) thought, "This Homecoming was the best one ever, the music was great." The music ended at midnight and the students left the high school empty until clean-up Sunday morning.

-Christina Johns

"The heat at the dance was so excruciating. I didn't know we weren't allowed outside and I ended up getting in trouble."

-Autumn Rash (05)

Concentrating on their dance moves, seniors Sarah Foltz, Katie Capaldi, and Jane Rynbrandt try to keep up to the beat of the music while doing the electric slide.

"A friend of mine got picked up and crowd surfed around the dance floor."

Pride for — USA

*"When I first found out about the attacks I was in my car on my way to school. I was the only one that knew because we were under construction and didn't have TV."
-Mark Matz*

The events of September 11th, 2001 left our nation broken. Six-thousand of our fellow Americans were lost. The economy was down; prices fluctuated from extremely high gas prices to extremely low airfare. Jobs were lost and welfare rose, but we held together.

Increased patriotism spread throughout our nation and the halls of Petoskey High School. The student body even showed their concern by changing blue and white day to red, blue and white day.

When asked about how the attacks affected our nation and school, Sean Scarbrough (02) said, "It was a very terrible thing that happened. It should open our eyes to the hurts of other countries." Sandy Krumri (03) stated, "I was shocked that somebody would go to such horrendously fatal lengths just to prove a point."

Although the September 11th attacks have had a negative impact on our country, they have also brought us together. Petoskey High School has become a part of this spirit.

-Dustin Johnson

*"I didn't even believe it when I first heard about the planes."
-Peter Platte (05)*

Showing her patriotism on a regular school day, Julie Kimball (02) wears the colors of the nation. This was the more common form of patriotism that we witnessed throughout the year.

*"I was devastated. I even went home early to see exactly what had happened."

Express your _____ Self

dare to be different and stand out

In a world full of followers, it is very important to express oneself as an individual. There are many ways to express oneself, whether it is through the way they dress, the music they listen to, or even through the sports they play.

"I express myself through baseball. It builds my self-confidence and my coordination," explained Kory Ciesielski (02).

Expression through music is also very common. "I think everyone listens to music that they can relate to," said Mr. Miller. Kari Hodgkiss (04) added, "The type of music you listen to depends on the kind of mood you're in."

Appearance is also another common way of self-expression. "I express myself by what I wear. I think that everyone has their own style that is unique.

Everyone stereotypes and I just want them to get the right idea about me," described D.W. Lucky (03).

One should always feel comfortable about expressing oneself and should be confident in the person that they are.

dancing the night away with the Studio 54 theme

With the theme of Studio 54, students got decked out in their club attire and set out to have a night filled with dancing and fun. "It was different from the other dances because it really seemed like we were in a club instead of our cafeteria," stated Lindsey DeRue (04). Before the dance, spirit week took place with Monday: Toga day, Tuesday: old fogey day, followed by Wednesday: Celebrity day, Thursday: Beach day and Friday: the traditional Blue and White day. The winner from each of the days received a free ticket to night's dance.

During halftime of the basketball game, Andy Ruemenapp and Sarah Jared were announced King and Queen. "I couldn't believe that I won. I wasn't expecting it at all," stated Andy Ruemenapp (02). The remaining members of the snowcoming court were Dustin Johnson, John Cool, Dave Eicke, Jacob Olsen, Kristin Gracy, Amy Hotchkiss, Kate Hutchens and Erica Chippi. Overall, snowcoming was filled with crazy outfits and unforgettable memories.

Fries with _____ That?

is the social event*

In a town where going to the mall isn't an option and driving around gets tiresome, going out to eat with friends ranks high on many PHS students' lists of things to do. Whether you enjoy going to Burger Night every Thursday at La Senorita or hitting up Burger King late on Friday nights, there is always time for food, fun and companionship.

When students were asked to choose their favorite place to eat, an alarmingly large number chose Burger King. The low price and convenience appealed most to Jae

Green (02), who stated, "I would have to say that Burger King is the best restaurant because of the 99 cents Cravers Menu." Other hits among students were Subway, Big Apple Bagels, Taco Bell and Scheldes.

"The reason my friends and I go out to eat isn't necessarily because we are hungry; socializing is a big part of it too," said Cassandra Dickson (02). Whether you are dining after a basketball game on Friday night or Sunday morning after a slumber party, friends make the difference.

-Lindsay Hice

Kevin Corcoran (04)*

Friends on and off the court, the Varsity Boys' Basketball team gathers for dinner at La Senorita for Burger Night. "One thing I love about our team is how close we are. We hang out all the time and that is what makes us so close," stated Brett Koch (03).

Bigger and Better

out with the old and in with the new

Throughout this year and last the school has gotten new... everything! From new computers to a new gym, the school has almost everything a teenager could want... right?

"If I could change anything it would be how the class lockers are spread throughout the building," stated Corey Maier (02). Every student had their lockers near their advisory teacher so the regular "class halls" were shuffled around the school. "The lockers are up in the air for next year," stated Mr. Snyder. "Having them spread throughout the school really cut down on hazing."

Although most of the student body, seniors in particular, don't like being confined to the new cafeteria after lunch or having underclassmen park in a designated "senior only" parking lot, there have been good changes.

Mr. Hice stated, "I think the changes have benefited the school. They have enhanced educational opportunities and they have instilled pride and community support."

-Heather Kahgee

Winter comes _____ Late

better late than never

The winter season was beginning to look disappointing to many skiers and snowboarders this year. Finally, there was a much-needed snowstorm just before Christmas that accumulated nearly fifty inches of snow and allowed people their first opportunity to get to the ski hills.

Skiing and snowboarding is very popular among Petoskey students. "I try to be out on the hills three nights a week and every Saturday and Sunday," said Caleb Heir (03). With all of the styles offered, Freestyle and Half-Pipe are the most preferred. "I like to ride freestyle because it allows you to be more creative," stated Jacob Wilhelm (02). Freestyle riding involves use of the "terrain park" which includes a variety of jumps and rails. The half-pipe is just what the name implies, a snow-made half-pipe which allows the snowboarders and skiers to perform aerial stunts.

Even with the late snowfall, the students were able to enjoy the ski slopes, taking full advantage of their limited amount of time.

The Fall play, "Every Babysitter's Nightmare", was directed by Tamara Kolodziej and Julie Saunders, and set its focus on the outrageous characters. This was the first play in 18 years that wasn't based on a musical.

"The fact that it was so comical really made it interesting," Heather May (02, Carrie) remarked.

Students produced the majority of the play, including those in Building Trades who constructed the set. "It was neat how such a diverse group of people came together to reach a single goal,"

Emily Denay (03, Marsha) observed.

The community was also committed to the cause, offering support as well as assistance in advertising, tickets, and lights. "What sticks out in my mind most is the amount of positive response we received from the community," remarked Kolodziej. Denay agreed, "The turnout could have been better but a lot of people were supporting us."

"Hopefully our revival of Fall plays will inspire even better ones in the future," continued May.

Happily ever ——— After students experienced a night of fairytale endings

After sauntering out on the red carpet and walking over a bridge, students entered the fairytale theme. They were able to take a walk on the wild side and adventure into the "enchanted forest." This room offered drinks and other refreshments, as well as a place to relax and socialize.

"Craig Russell and I started a mosh-pit. It was entertaining and it made our night."
Randy Erno (03).

Surprise stage appearances by Steve Butwell (02), Matt Chisholm (02) and Frank McGlynn (02) made the night unforgettable. The crowning of the king and queen, Jon Meyer and Becky King, was also a memorable moment. Many crazy dance moves were seen on the dance floor and the decorations were done well.

Music was a big part of prom. Some people thought that a DJ would have increased music enjoyment, but many people did enjoy the band. "The band was good but I think everyone enjoyed the CD's that were played," explained Emily Wynn (03).

*"I only went to Detroit, but it was just nice to get away from school for a while."
-Travis Keck (03)*

By the time that March and April finally come around, most students are ready for a break. Not just any break, but Spring Break. Spring Break is a time that everyone looks forward to. It's a time for taking trips with friends and family, meeting new people, or just a time to relax and do nothing.

"The hot weather was awesome. My family and I just relaxed in the sun down in Florida the whole week," commented Sarah Godfrey (05). Some people spent the time going to the Carribbean or to Mexico, while other people went to Colorado to ski.

Of course not everyone leaves town, so there are always a handful of people that stay in Petoskey and hang out with friends. "It was cold and boring and the sun never really came out, but it was fun since it was Spring Break," stated Kevin Glasscock (02).

After a relaxing and much needed spring break, the students came back to school and were ready and focused to finish the school year.

-Amy Stone

Love and Joy

*many nights of practice and performance
created family ties*

"We love you, Conrad, oh, yes we do." For many years, Petoskey Schools have paraded talented actors, actresses, and vocalists in a play. Under the direction of Julie Saunders and Jerry Westerman, students performed the Broadway musical, "Bye Bye Birdie".

"Bye Bye Birdie" is a satirical comedy -- an unusual genre for PHS -- that gives an insight into everyday life that is a part of many teenage lives. The play is about a rock star named Birdie, played by Howard Baker (03) and Zach Wolgammott (03), who is drafted into the army. As a last hurrah for his agent, played by Frank McGlynn (02) and Jon Meyer (02), to get out of debt, Birdie was to kiss an adoring fan while singing his farewell to America.

A second plot involved the agent and his secretary, played by Ami Marshall (03) and Zoe Marshall-Rashid (02), who was also a long-time girlfriend. Many years without marriage set conflicts ablaze between the two throughout the production, until the end, when she received a proposal.

The play had a Hollywood ending.

-Amy Sarki

"The best part about the play was how the endless hours of practice created long lasting friendships."

Lending a _____ Hand

getting out of the classroom to help out in the community

"I liked advisory because it gave us a chance to really get involved."

-Jackie DeLyon

High school prepares students for the future. In an attempt to reach this goal, PHS developed a program called Advisory. During Advisory, students were given the chance to take part in several activities which helped them learn more about themselves and create a plan for their future. When asked about his thoughts on advisory, Jaime Baker (02) stated, "I think that it is a good idea for younger kids because they get to explore their options and set goals for themselves." Not only were they given assignments to do in the classroom but they were also given a chance to go out into the community and volunteer.

Meeting two times a week, each Advisory class created a plan to carry out their service project. After Mr. Hewitt's class sponsored a family at Christmas, he said, "Our project was very effective. We raised a lot of money, and we walked away with a greater sense of pride."

By participating in activities, students bettered themselves and their community while preparing for their future.

-Ellen Foltz

"Advisory helped introduce me to people in my class that I probably wouldn't have known otherwise."

-Sarah Lewis (05)

■ High school is the time for involvement. Some students choose to get involved by playing sports and by being with friends, while some are members of a club or organization. There is a wide variety at PHS, ranging from Debate and Forensics to VICA to Marching Band. Each club works toward a common goal, whether it is doing community service or raising money for a trip. The French and Spanish clubs take trips on Spring Break every other year. Unfortunately, the French Club was unable to go, because of September 11th.

Other clubs take part in competitions. For example, HOSA competed nationally in California. There was a group of DECA students who also participated at a national level. Even the yearbook club competes - they send the Petosegan in to get judged by a panel of journalists. Each club within the high school provides an opportunity for students to get involved with something that interests them. With such a wide variety, many students learn, grow and create new relationships.

working together yields greater understanding

"Belonging to a club makes you feel a part of something, and you also have fun making new friends," stated Claire Varga (05). Many dedicated students at PHS participated in clubs and organizations because of this same reason. French club, Spanish club, and Quiz Bowl were among the many clubs and organizations.

Meetings for French and Spanish club were held frequently throughout the year. The French club was supposed to go to Europe, but due to the September 11 attacks, they were unable to go. A spaghetti dinner was one of the many fundraisers that the French club held. "At first we didn't think a lot of people would show up because it was at the same time as a varsity basketball game, but the dinner turned out very well. We were very pleased," stated Adam Ward (04). The Spanish club also held fundraisers. They sold Advent Calendars during Christmas time and made lunches for a boys' tennis tournament.

The Quiz Bowl team also had many dedicated members. At Michigan State they were 0 and 2; overall 10 and 5. They took home the "championship" title.

Commitment and dedication are just two qualities that members of the National Honor Society (NHS) and the Leadership council must possess. Members of NHS worked together to sponsor two blood drives, participate in bell ringing for the Salvation Army, volunteer at the Humane Society, coached middle school and elementary athletics and perform Christmas carols at care facilities. NHS is made up of 42 Juniors and 40 Seniors who must maintain a GPA of 3.3, have good character, exercise leadership and provide time to volunteer activities. They must have a total of 10 hours of recorded service hours.

Leadership Council is unlike most student councils. Instead of early morning meetings they meet every day during 4th hour led by Mr. Tamm. The class studied government throughout the week, while Friday was dedicated to Leadership Council. When asked what has been the most enjoyable thing about this year's group of students, president Franny Bechek (02) stated, "I have enjoyed the diversity of the students. Everyone this year is so different and there are people from all different "cliques" of the school."

perfect evidence to an outstanding season

Creative minds and logical ideas paved the path for the success of the debate and forensics teams.

The debate topic was "Resolved: That the United States federal government should establish a foreign policy significantly limiting the use of weapons of mass destruction." This forced the team members to open their minds to the possibility of nuclear war.

The novice team had an outstanding season with first place finishes in the Traverse City and Gaylord invitationals, while ranking in the top 20 at state finals. The varsity team received a 4th place finish at districts and a 15th place finish at the state finals.

In forensics, students do many activities ranging from dramatic interpretation to oral interpretation. Both include activities such as story-telling, poetry, and news broadcasting. With a successful season, two members, Ursula Anderman (03) and Kevin George (02), both made it to the state finals as alternates.

The Madrigals and Belles had a year full of concerts, special dinners and many other exciting activities. Once try-outs were completed the fun began. A typical day in each of these classes started off with a warm-up so voices were not hurt by jumping right into the songs.

The Belles received perfect scores at a competition held in Gaylord on March 16th. They also participated in a Winter Choral Concert and a Valentine's Day Concert. When asked about the concerts, Katelyn Farrell (03) said, "I get excited to perform because we get to show off what we have been working so hard on."

To get into the Christmas spirit, the Madrigals sang a variety of carols to retirement homes around Petoskey. In April, they took a trip accompanied by their teacher, Julie Saunders, to Missouri for the 2002 Branson Jubilee. Twenty-two of the Madrigal singers claimed a third place finish. Becky King (02) quoted, "I would recommend this class to anyone who enjoys singing. Madrigals has been a great experience for me."

Deadlines, deadlines, deadlines... these are the only words that the yearbook and journalism staffs know.

"Taking yearbook taught me to not procrastinate. And it helped me gain responsibility skills," commented Megan Goalen (04). Capturing each high school memory takes devotion, patience and a lot of extra time from the yearbook staff. These students must go to athletic events, write copy and captions, sell advertisements, and carry out many other tasks. "I took this class because I wanted to help make a yearbook that I can look back on in 15 years and be proud of," stated Lindsay Hice (02).

In the second year of production, the Hillstreet Journal continued to succeed. Kristal Chellis (03) stated, "Journalism is a fun, laid back class, but you have to take on a lot of responsibility." Journalism prepares students for the future. "This class has taught me how to work as a team," commented Jenifer Wagar (02).

Working together to make things happen

Every vocational class is designed in some way to prepare students for the future.

Students who take part in the Medical Occupations class have the chance to participate in HOSA (Health Occupation Students of America). The class helps educate students interested in a future of health care professions. The HOSA team competed in both the regional and state finals. There were four students who made it to the national competition in California: Lindsay Dunstan (03), Megan Serafini (03), Kathleen Willis (03), and Jaime Baker (02).

"HOSA is just like DECA or VICA- joining a team to accomplish a common goal," explained Josie Klienert (02).

Another club based on the building trades vocational class is VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs America). Each year the students in VICA compete in many areas such as construction, design, culinary and electrical plumbing. VICA also holds an annual garage build fund-raiser that raises money for a student scholarship. Petoskey was successful at the national VICA competition, which was held in Lansing.

Many students in the high school work with the community through their clubs and organizations.

FCCLA and Equestrian are two of these clubs.

"I have always been interested in working with kids. So I decided to take the Early Childhood Education class, and then I joined the FCCLA club," stated Sarah Carlson (03). The "Family Career and Community Leaders of America" is a group that was recently added to the long list of organizations of Petoskey High School. The juniors and seniors frequently go to Ottawa

Elementary School to help out with the kids and read to them. In March of 2002, the team made it to the state leadership conference in Ypsilanti, Michigan.

The Equestrian club also made it to the Michigan State Finals, held in Detroit. "I am involved in this organization because it's exciting to compete against other people and represent our school. The best part is being with the horses, the worst is cleaning up after them," stated Rachel Tamminga (05).

DECA is an organization that is known for competing around the country in a variety of competitions dealing with the facts of marketing. Stat Club is known throughout the community and school for helping out the wrestling team and coaches.

DECA, "An Association of Marketing Students", is a club that is made up of students from the marketing classes. Matthew Chisholm (03) stated, "I'm in DECA because I plan on getting a career that has to do with marketing, and I think it's a good guide." DECA also takes many trips where they compete against other students. On these trips, each DECA student is given a role play, which is based on the area of occupation that the student chose to compete in.

Stat Club is a group of students who keeps track of points and records for wrestling. The Stat Club also makes locker signs, supports the team, and records the whole season. They also have to deal with many obstacles.

Judy Archambault (03) stated, "I don't like when the other coaches get upset with me when they think that I wrote the wrong score." Stat Club helps with the wrestling scores and assist the coaches.

"We did the math, and there was more marching than sleeping," John Vandeventer (02) remarked - quite humorously.

Band Camp. For those in Marching Band, those two words offer little promise of sleep and a big promise of grueling practices to come. The new director, Jayne Bennett, helped with the clarinets, saxophones and flutes. "It was helpful to have an extra hand around," Tracy Thompson (03) said.

With their West Side Story theme, the Marching Band took first at both the Jenison and Grandville competitions, and second at Kenawa Hills. They also performed in an exhibition at T.C. West. Colorguard left Jenison and Grandville with the title "Best Colorguard".

As football came to a close,

Winterguard took over, choosing new music for the upcoming basketball season. "We wanted to do a Pop theme because there is a lot of action and fun to the music," co-captain Amy Beyer (02) remarked. Along with the new music came new uniforms, even though they were slightly altered. "There was a lot of drama with the uniforms," co-captain Lyndsay Morales said. "We had to tone down our original choice because they were thought to be dashing and inappropriate."

Although the girls helped with choreography, director Jim Kan handled positioning and Steve Chase covered flag-work.

-Kristal Chellis

Performing the half-time show at the last home game of the season, the Marching Band's clarinet section stays in formation. The kinector balls were used as props to emphasize the West Side Story music.

Sure to coordinate her flag with the others on the court, Erin Sarki (02) moves to "The Way You Make Me Feel", by Michael Jackson, during the half-time performance at the last home game of the season. With the help of Ms. Jil Leestma, Winterguard was able to use three different flags throughout the season.

Marching through drizzling rain, Marching Band made their way down Mitchell St., leading the way for the class floats. Although white pants are the usual outfit for the Homecoming parade, blue had to be worn on account of a competition the next afternoon.

Opening the half-time act, Stacy Rose (03), Laura Koons (04) and Betony Furgeson (02) lead the dance to the first song of the West Side Story theme, Mambo. Colorguard performed their act not only at the half-time shows at football games, but also at Grandville and Jenison, where they came home with the title "Best Colorguard".

■ Sports play a major role in many students' lives. Because of their dedication and hard work, many athletic teams were successful. The Boys' Tennis team tied for the state championship and the Boys' Ski team were the state champions for the third year in a row. The Varsity Girls' Tennis team competed at the state level and placed 9th overall. The Boys' Cross Country team placed 10th in the state and the Girls' Cross Country team placed 6th in the state. The Varsity Boys' Soccer team were Regional champions, but they lost in the semi final game. The Girls' Ski team placed 3rd in the state, with many individual accomplishments. The Cheer team placed 10th in the state. The Volleyball team won the district tournament and placed 2nd at regionals. The Softball team also won the district tournament and they lost in the final game of regionals. Many teams competed at the state level. The team began training by attending a camp at Michigan State University in the summer. "Camp was a great experience. We had a lot of tough competition," stated Sarah Carlson (03). Their season ended in November, but many of the girls continue to play on a regular basis throughout the year.

making goals to overcome the challenges of playing on a team

Both the JV and Freshmen Girls'

Basketball seasons faced many challenges, and they improved because of them.

Even though the JV team did not have an outstanding record, they all agreed that they played to their best ability and were proud of their season. "Our team faced a lot of difficulties, but we managed to overcome them all," stated Lauren Phelan (05).

The freshmen team also put forth much effort-in every practice and in every game. "We had to learn how to work together and how to cooperate in order to play on the court," stated Jennifer Pfeifle (05). With a record of 2-18, the girls fought a challenging season, but they learned a lot. "It was a great experience and helped us all grow," commented Emily Lemieur (05). "We played the best we could, and put in a lot of effort," stated Erin Green (04). Leading the Pack dedication of team leaders inspire the team to excel

Most people cringe at the thought of running everyday after school to train for Saturday races. These boys didn't.

During the team camp in August, they came together and they strengthened the ties among them. Dave Eicke (02) stated, "Our contact outside the team was very limited, and we put ourselves through torture for no apparent reason." The torture Eicke talks of is training daily after school until five o'clock. All of this paid off when the boys took 1st at the West Branch Ogemaw Heights Invitational. Their second place finish at the regional meet qualified the team to compete in the State Finals for the seventh year in a row. The boys earned tenth place at the state finals.

Cross-country takes effort and determination. It requires support needed from teammates. The boys came together during camp, and ended up with a great season overall. Placing tenth out of 27 teams at State Finals is an honor that not everybody can claim. These boys can, though.

upper classmen set the pace for a season of wins

Hard work, self-confidence, trust and respect, are all things needed in a runner. It takes time to go to meets and it takes self-motivation to keep in shape. "The state meet was the best meet of the season. The girls got 6th place, which is really good!"

said Erin Sarki (02).

These girls are friends on and off the trails. Running together takes more than being on the same stride. It takes knowing how everyone works and how the team functions emotionally and physically. "We formed a camaraderie that most sports teams only dream about. And it all originated at our team camp in August. We had to work together to get a common goal." Says Amy Sarki (03).

Showing Devotion

practicing and playing as a team through hard work and dedication

■ Dedication, grueling practices, and hard work are all requirements of being a Northmen football player.

Dedication inspired each player on the team to make personal goals that would encourage teamwork and improve the entire team. "Each player's teamwork and dedication is partly what brought the team together," explained Coach Dave Farris. Much dedication was put into every practice.

Without practices there wouldn't have been time to establish enough enthusiasm to carry the team through the season. "Practices gave us time to work on our team goals and they really made a difference," Spencer Lemieur (02) replied. Practices encouraged teammates to work together.

The team's hard work helped them to win the Homecoming game, against Traverse City Central. They accomplished many other goals through hard work and practices.

Keeping the Beat

moving towards success and coming out on top

■ Rallying the fans and keeping the excitement of the game in the air is normally what comes to people's minds when they hear the word "cheerleading." The Varsity Cheer Team still does that, but times have changed and they are much more active. Consisting of only three seniors, the majority of the team was sophomores and juniors. Having a younger team, they had many goals.

The team cheered at more than just the regular Friday night football games. They also cheered at one of the boys' home soccer games. The team competed for the second year in a row also. They participated in the Fall Festival of Spirit and the 2001 Red Devil Invitational. "We work hard when we compete and there's a lot of competition against us. We all have a lot of fun at them though," commented Trisha Budek (04).

battling together to become champions

What used to be a group of girls cheering for the football team has become a group of girls competing to earn the right to call themselves the best. Traveling to competitions in different locations, the freshmen and JV cheerleaders battled to win first place.

As a young group of girls, the JV team fought off the competition for two first place finishes. Although it was the freshmen team's first time competing, they went into it well prepared. Their preparation paid off as they placed first in the contest.

In order for them to be champions, they had to practice like champions. These two teams practiced every day and became quite comfortable with each other. Amanda Dies (05) stated, "Our team often got into trouble because we spent so much time laughing together."

Along with the laughs, their hard work and dedication paid off as they worked hard to achieve their goals of having a successful season. Their loud voices and energetic spirits allowed them to be named, "the best".

Moving Forward

Many teams have some difficulty gaining the confidence and positive attitudes after losing 11 players from the previous season. However, the Varsity Boys' Soccer team went into their rebuilding year with a strong desire to win.

They started their season by winning the Petoskey Invitational held at the end of August. The team also ended up grabbing the second place spot in the Big North Conference.

ever-wins. Another major highlight of the season was winning the regional finals. The Northmen traveled three and a half hours and ended up playing in overtime. The team won this close game with a score of 3-2 against Bloomfield Hills Lahser. This was the fourth regional win for boys' soccer in school history.

The Northmen played the semi-final game against Farmington and lost with a 3-2 score. The Varsity team proved themselves worthy of having a successful season.

Passing Success

striving to reach goals through teamwork and dedication

Dedication, hard work, and intensity played an important role for the J.V. boys soccer team. "Our number one goal was to push ourselves to our fullest potential," stated Keith Braddock (04). Throughout the season the team showed tremendous improvement on the field. "As the season progressed we came together not only as a team but as friends, which brought us to a higher playing level," remarked Justin Beyer (04). The team definitely had these skills, according to Coach Gunderson. Their overall record was 3-13-1.

With an almost flawless season, the freshmen boys' soccer team had an overall record of 12-0-3. They put many hours into this winning record. "Practices definitely paid off," added Tim Kerr (05). Many skills were emphasized during practices, including teamwork, dribbling and heading the ball. Many of their goals were accomplished because of their tough practices. "Practices were hard work, but they were a lot of fun because Coach Jonker played with us," remarked Eric Behan (05).

The JV and freshmen soccer teams both had a lot of success. This was due to the dedication, positive attitudes, and skills of every player. Both teams were formed through much practice.

Returning a ball served to her by a Cadillac opponent, Julie Larson (02) follows her shot across the court at the BNC championship. Larson won this match in the 2nd round.

Giving each other hugs, Becky King (02) and Meagan Killips (04) congratulate each other after winning their final match against Traverse City Central. "King and Killips were the only doubles team to beat T.C.," stated Coach Lang.

Preparing for their next match at Grand Rapids

Working Together

playing as a team to become better friends and better players

If you were to ask any of the girls from the varsity tennis team what they thought of the season, they would reply by saying that they were like sisters. By only losing three players from the previous year, the returning team was solid and extremely close, according to the players.

The girls had an overall record of 8-2, a 2nd place finish at the Big North Conference, and a 9th place finish at the State Finals meet. Making it to the semi-finals of the state meet, the #1 doubles team of Becky King (02) and Meagan Killips

(04) and the #4 doubles team of Christina Carson (05) and Lacey Gabrick (04), helped the team place. Also contributing to the girls finish at the state finals were Andrea Knibbs (02) and Julie Larson (02), the #1 and #2 singles players.

Reflecting on the season, Katie Berger (03) said, "My best memory is of the Allegan tournament. As a whole, the team did outstanding as we took the tournament by six points." The tennis team worked very hard toward their goals.

At the Allegan Tournament, Katie Capaldi (02) serves the ball to her opponent. The doubles team consisting of Capaldi and Christine Davis (04) beat their opponent to help contribute to the team's 1st place finish.

Serving Success

the best of the best

Nothing comes without hard work and great determination, which the J.V. girls' tennis team pulled off in six short weeks. They went to 13 tennis events and had only one defeat and one tie.

"Our goals for the season were to play well and have fun," said Coach Smith. When she was asked who the most improved player on the team was, she said, "Ami Marshall fit the title perfectly. Ami went through dramatic improvement. I can't believe the difference I have seen in her ability."

The players were not the only contribution to the team. Much of their inspiration to play hard came from their coach. "Coach Smith has had a big impact on our team," said Katie Ryan (04). "I think that we have had a great year and I can not wait until we have tryouts for next year's varsity team," stated Ami Marshall (03).

A lot of hard work was put into the season. The enthusiasm and spirit of the girls shined as each player cheered on the team.

Pushing Ahead

relying on each other to become a closer team

“We wanted to improve individually and to become a tight, cohesive group of guys,” commented Patrick Ryan (03).

The varsity basketball team faced obstacles and overcame them at their own stride. With only three returning varsity players, the team had to learn to play together.

“At the beginning of the year, we started off slow due to inexperience. After a few games we came together as a team and started winning games,” explained Ben Brown (02). The season started with the Northmen hosting an invitational tournament in the new gym. The boys' basketball team was the first team ever to play a game in the gym.

Many of the team members agreed that going to “Burger Night” at La Seniorita helped them become better friends.

As the season progressed, they learned how to work together and become a team. Through much hard work and dedication to the game, the players prospered and improved individually, and as a group.

Living the New

different atmospheres; same game

With the addition of the new gym, conflicting practice schedules among the basketball teams were practically eliminated. While JV shared the new gym with the varsity team, the freshmen played unaccompanied in Central Gym. "It's good that we got to carry on the tradition of Central," Clayton Heylmun (05) said.

Practices consisted of individual drills, conditioning and scrimages. In the off season, the boys worked out, attended camps and tournaments, and conditioned. "We ran when we missed free-throws," Kyle Flippo (05) said.

There are many rewards to being on a team. "My reward was getting playing time," stated Jason Allering (04).

At the end of the season JV came out with an overall record of 7 wins and 13 losses. The freshmen followed suit with a close record of 6 wins and 13 losses.

"However you decide to look at the season, being on a team means being with friends," stated Ryan Kalbfleisch (04). Both the JV and Freshmen teams learned from their mistakes and prospered.

With a young team composed of only three seniors, five juniors, and seven sophomores, the cheerleaders pulled off a very successful season while competing and providing entertainment for fans.

my school, cheering at games cannot compare to the feeling of cheering competitively," said Sara Meyer (02).

Although the girls make their performances look simple, a large amount of skill and hard work is required. "A daily practice consists of stretching, jumps, voices, faces and reviewing material," commented Coach Vandeneuvel.

Starting Over

dealing with many changes brought the team together

In only the second season in Petoskey High School history, the hockey team benefited from changes: filling empty spots, learning from a new coach, adapting to an abnormal practice schedule, playing with a growing support from spectators, and holding a better record.

The team practiced everyday at the Griffin Arena. On Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, the 19 players had to wake up and practice at six in the morning.

At the start of the season, their skills as a team were still a little rusty from the time away from the rink. "In practice we worked on fundamentals," stated Timothy Forton (04). This allowed the team to prevail over South Christian with the first of two back-to-back victories.

The team had more losses than wins, but the victories were enough to give the team hope. "We got so used to losing. When we won, it felt good," supported Adam Engelman (02). With their hard work, the team survived the adjustments, and improved.

With determination and hard work, the Girls' Ski team made it through another year. Their goals were set high and were accomplished. In order to achieve these goals, the girls had to work hard, on and off the hills.

Just like any team, the girls set many goals at the beginning of the season. "Our goal was to go to the State Championship. My individual goal was to ski fast and have fun," stated Jessica Darga (05).

The girls opened their season by taking second place in the Boyne Highlands Harbor/Petoskey Invitational. After competing well at numerous ski hills, the girls ended up taking first in the Big North Conference. The team also competed in the State Finals at Marquette Mountain. The girls ended up placing third in the state.

Three-peat: State Champions!

starting a new tradition in the era of boys' athletics

For the third straight year, the Boys' Ski team claimed first place in the state meet at Marquette Mountain. With a lot of experience, the team set a high goal of having the perfect season. "Winning everything was a goal for us and we just fell short losing to Marquette early in the season," stated Jacob Olsen (02).

Dry land began in November. The boys were not worried, even though the snow didn't fly until December. Robbie Currnow (02) commented, "The only team that could beat us was ourselves."

After losing to Marquette by only eight points, the team redirected their focus. "If you work as a team, everything is accomplishable," stated Nick McIntosh (02). And with that in mind, the boys went on to win the state title for the third year in a row. With the team being dominated by seniors, it was a great way to end their season. "It feels better than any other accomplishment, because nobody in the state was better than us for three years in a row," McIntosh stated.

Keeping the Spirit

working towards team goals with great ambition

Most people don't understand how much skill is needed to play volleyball. It takes a lot of mental and physical effort. In order for the team to achieve excellence, they must have high expectations and difficult practices.

The volleyball team set high goals for their season. One of the goals they set was to be BNC champions. The team ended up tying for second with TC West, with Cadillac taking first in the conference.

Although they fell short of the BNC championship, the girls had many other accomplishments. They beat state ranked teams throughout the season, such as Fruitport and Suttons Bay.

The team also got to sign the famous volleyball jump box. In order to sign the jump box, teams need to have at least 40 wins.

By working together, they achieved the goals set before them and built a foundation of friendship and teamwork.

Overcoming Obstacles

stepping up when the team needed them the most

Every team and every season is faced with many challenges. Whether it is speed, height, or injury, every team has obstacles. Both the JV and Freshmen volleyball teams faced many throughout the season.

For the freshmen team, it was the quick pace of high school athletics and a first year coach that set the pace. Beginning with a few weeks of practice, the freshmen team prepared themselves for their first game. Game after game, the team battled their way to eight victories.

The JV team's challenge came in the physical form. An incredibly high number of injuries forced some of the team members to play in unfamiliar positions. At one point, there were only seven people able to play. Despite the large number of injuries, the JV team battled to finish their season with strength.

Even with the many challenges faced, both of the volleyball teams dealt with the changes and grew because of them. These teams proved that hard work can overcome many obstacles.

Changing Fortunes

wrestlers...back on top with a winning track

Wrestling is a sport that takes more than just two people struggling to pin one another to a mat. It requires many different skills such as speed, strength, discipline, aggression, and most importantly heart, according to many of the wrestlers. Coach Arthur added, "There is no criteria for body type in wrestling- from the 103-pounder to the heavy weight, there is room for everyone."

In order to succeed, each wrestler has their own way to prepare for their matches. James Archambault (04) stated, "I prepare myself physically by stretching out and getting my heart rate up. I prepare myself mentally by thinking about the moves that I am going to hit."

The wrestlers must also practice hard everyday to succeed. Jake Stradling (04) stated, "I run and we wrestle live matches all of the time to stay in shape."

The Varsity wrestling team had a record of 5-2 in the BNC and a final record of 21-10.

Varsity wrestling requires just as much mental strength as physical strength, and this season every wrestler showed these talents in practice and in their matches.

Presenting Support

a contribution during every practice and every game

The Varsity B-team and JV wrestling teams often shared wrestlers to make a complete team. Wrestlers would also wrestle in a higher weight class to complete the teams. "I contributed to the team by agreeing to wrestle up a class," explained Barry Luhellier (05). Contributing to the teams in such ways is what made them successful.

During practice, each of the teams would wrestle together to improve individual skills. Spencer Lemieur (02) stated, "When I am at practice I try to wrestle teammates that are better than me so I can improve."

Practices also provided time for teammates to provide moral support to each other that encouraged success to both teams. "I contributed to the team mostly by cheering on my teammates during practice," expressed Kyle Hickman (03). Every bit of support brought together teammates. This was shown through each of the twelve successful wins.

Pushing the Limits

using every last breath and muscle to make it to the finish line

Track is a sport where one is able to show their talent off. There are numerous events for various talents, like shot-put, hurdles and long jump. The running events are split into two categories: long distance and sprinting. Running track as a sport offers more than the average sports.

The track team placed 4th in the Big North Conference. Eight boys from the track team ran at state finals. No more than 5 out of the 8 boys were Regional champions. Jeremy Sigsby (05) broke the school record for the 100 meter dash in Alpena during the Big North Conference. Dane Doctor (04) also broke a school record for the 200 meter dash and was the conference champion for the 200 meter dash. Donovan Irish (02), beat the school record for the 400 meter dash.

Coach Schmoke stated, "I'm happy that I saw improvement every week, it was a fun season." Coach Ferris and Schmoke were very proud of how well the boys did this season.

Pitching A Win

Team unity determines the effectiveness of a season

A large part of a team's success is due to the goals that are set at the beginning of the season. The Girls' Varsity Softball team set high standards for themselves and lived up to them.

Goals for the season included breaking the school record for wins that were set the previous year, being conference champs and reducing team strikeouts. The girls also improved on their communication on the field and their determination to stay in every game.

The girls were friends on and off the field which helped the team's productiveness. "I feel that we are the closest we have ever been," stated Cassandra Dickson (02).

The girls won the district tournament for the second time in 19 years. The first game was won against Gladstone, the second ranked team in the state, with a score of 1-0. Then they went on to win the District Finals against Gaylord with a score of 5-4. The girls lost a heartbreaking game to Pinconning with a score of 5-0.

team effort helps to stop the opponent

Softball is a game that involves hard work, dedication and brains. These qualities aided in making the Freshmen and JV teams successful.

The JV team's overall record was 26-6. The team broke the record for most JV wins in a season. "We worked hard and practiced a lot. It definitely paid off at the end of the season," stated Jill Daly (04). The JV team held a car wash at Carter's to raise money for next season, and raised almost $350. Eight JV players went to Florida during Spring Break to train for the season.

The Freshmen team's overall record was 8-7. This was the first Freshmen Softball team to ever exist at PHS. The team, coached by Craig Jared, did surprisingly well for the first year. They also held a car wash at Glen's to raise money. The players grew and developed as a team, even though they were all very inexperienced.

"The best parts about being on the team were making new friends and having fun on the field," commented Caleb Migda (04). What came with having fun on the field were long, hard practices. The boys practiced everyday for two

the JV tennis team works together to achieve success

“Awesome is the word to describe the JV tennis team,” stated Chris Deery(03). “It’s a great sport and I became friends with my team mates,” Deery added. He was not the only team member that felt this way. “The season was entirely enjoyable,” added Trevor Davis (03).

The fun all of the boys had combined with their friendships led to an extremely successful season. The boys won the majority of the tournaments they were in. Their compatibility with each other was a key to their success.

The team was comprised of two freshmen, five sophomores, eight juniors. “We all enjoy tennis so much that our dedication came naturally,” stated Brendan Carson (03). Overall, the boys expressed that being on the team was a great experience, one that they hoped to repeat.

Staying Level

keeping a level head during injuries helps team unity

Watching from the sidelines isn't the way that most team members prefer to experience a game. Unfortunately, this was true for the Varsity Girls' Soccer team. Many of the players were injured throughout the season so it made it difficult to keep a steady lineup. "I was really impressed with how the girls stepped up and played to the best of their ability. It was awesome to play with such a good team my senior year," commented Jane Rynbrandt (02).

With all of the setbacks, the team stayed focused and kept working. "We had high hopes for ourselves at the beginning of the season, but almost all of the players, at one time or another, were injured. Those injuries kept us from reaching some of the goals that we set individually and as a team," explained Coach Batchelor.

Even though the team was faced with many obstacles, they were able to tie with Harbor Springs, a long time rival, and move on to the District Finals.

Pushing Ahead

Balancing hard work and dedication

Despite the cold temperatures, the JV and freshmen teams were still able to have successful seasons. "If I could change one thing about the season, I would make the weather warmer because every time we played our bodies were numb—it was SO cold out," stated Amy Stepanovich (04). The JV team was coached by Coach Gunderson. "We had a very interesting season. We never knew if we were going to have a full team due to injuries, eligibility, or other reasons," stated Gunderson.

The freshmen team was coached by Mr. Jonker. They also had a very successful season, with all wins and one tie. "Playing on a high school team is a totally different experience. I love the competition and the overall heart our team had for soccer," stated Jill Docter (05). It was no secret that the freshmen team had an outstanding season. They proved that they had what it took to come out on top.

■ The multitude of career options available to students makes choosing classes a challenge. Fortunately, PHS has many classes to go along with the career choices available. However, not all students know what kind of career they want to look into for their future. This is where the counselors come in - they have a program called Career Pathways that can help students map out a career, based on interests, knowledge and skills. After a pathway is chosen, the students schedule is created to compliment their pathway. This method aids the students who have a predetermined pathway, as well as those who are unaware of what they would like to do. If a student is aware of what career path they would like to take, PHS most likely has a program that fits the pathway. There are a wide variety of technical classes, as well as more traditional academic areas, such as math, science English and social studies. Each of these classes benefits the students as they learn more clearly where their futures are headed. Whether students at PHS know what career intrigues them or not, PHS has unique classes that will benefit them in the future.

Cutting the Edge

Defining the shape of success

Experience is needed to be successful in the real world. Drafting, Auto Technology, Building Trades, Medical Occupations, Early Childhood Development, and Commercial Foods all help students to gain experience about jobs after their high school career.

"Drafting is a way for me to express my ideas about architecture," said Jesse Tefo (02). Tefo, like many drafting students, has a two hour block of architectural drafting each day to better his skills for the future.

Commercial Foods is also a great beginning for many students, in their journey to becoming chefs.

"Early Childhood Development gives me experience for working with kids ."

- Marlene Bowe (02)

"Early Childhood Development is great, it gives me a chance to work with kids, and learn about how to be a good parent," said Katie Ondrusek (02).

All of the career tech. courses help students to decide what they want to do with their lives after they graduate from high school. With the knowledge and experience gained through these classes, students are better prepared for their futures. Students are set off on the right foot with their careers in mind.

-Steve Niezgoda

James Baker (02)

Searching For Truth

Taking a global perspective

No matter what career you choose in life, politics, history, economics and geography will always be a major necessity. "Ever since the September 11th attacks I wanted to be more involved in the world," stated Justin Riffer (02).

Social studies classes are more hands on learning rather than the lectures of other classes. "We do several group projects in World History-you can interact with the opinions of other people," said Sarah Jared (02). Some students went on the Close Up tour in Washington D.C. "The students had the opportunity to meet with the law makers to discuss public policy issues," explained Mr. Miller.

Student Council is also considered a social studies credit. They apply many of their skills in real life, through community service projects, fundraisers and the planning of dances. Studying history and the world will always be a benefit to a student's career and life.

Filling the Spaces

Concentrating to create numerous works of art

There are three different levels of art that are offered. The first is General Art. Students learn about the basics of drawing, painting and design work. "I like working on still life drawings and learning about perspectives of buildings, as well as objects in nature. There is always something that can be approved upon," said Mrs. VanWagoner. Some of the favorite projects in General Art are clay sculptures and acrylic paintings.

The second and third years of art are the partially the same. In both Advanced Art and Studio Art, students expand their abilities in what they have learned in the previous year. These classes are mainly about experimenting with mediums and seeing which ones you work best with, as an individual. In Studio Art, personal style is developed

"Art is a way to convert an idea into a creation. I think it takes intelligence and creativity."

- Ernesto DeLarosa (03)

and concentrated on.

"The main objective of all art classes, from General to Advanced, is to let students express themselves," stated Mrs. Van Wagoner. Students in every class are able to express their artistic skills, by making a piece to go in the calendar each year.

- C.C. Bechek

"Studio Art is my favorite art class. I have the freedom to create anything that I want."

Deep in Thought

In the writing gaze

Everything that we do in our lives revolves around English. Whether you are reading a magazine, filling out a college scholarship or writing a note to your best friend, you are using skills that were taught in English classes throughout the years.

PHS offers a variety of different English classes, some of which are required. In order to graduate, students have to take four English credits, two of which must be English 9 and English 10. Although required, English 10 can still be a fun class.

Cam Rickard (04) said, "Extending my vocabulary is very important to my high school experience." The student then has a choice as to what other classes they want to take to fulfill the other credit requirements. American Literature, Advanced Composition, AP Literature or Reading Writing

"English class is the best. Where else can you read a book all hour and not get in trouble?"

- Tad Garber (04)

Workshop are common choices, depending on a student's ability level.

Translating in Groups

Learning different languages to broaden horizons

Many students choose to take a foreign language in high school. It can broaden their horizons and teach the students about different cultures.

In Mr. Esterline's Spanish class, they make videos and play a lot of games with their vocabulary words.

Mr. Esterline wants his students to have a great time, while learning Spanish because he thinks his students deserve to have fun while they learn. Mr. Tramontini uses other methods such as "Learnables." These are small pictures on cards of vocabulary words which are used to make up games, such as goldfish and bingo.

French class is taught by Mrs. Baker-Smith. In this class, students do many projects such as making pictures of the rooms in their homes and labeling the objects in French to help with vocabulary skills. Mrs. Baker-Smith's class also does listening exercises to improve their hearing skills. This helped the students learn what the language sounded like. Both French and Spanish partake in many activities to help them remember the languages.

Figuring the Future

Participating in math class to lead you toward a career

Math is a big part of every school. At PHS, two math credits are required for graduation. Seven different levels of math are offered, ranging from integrated math to advanced placement calculus. "Math opens your mind to a different kind of thinking. It helps a student's ability to make connections," responded Mrs. Kelbel.

"Although many students don't realize it, they may be limiting their career opportunities by choosing not to take a math class," Mr.

Batchelor pointed out. Many careers require a math background, such as technology, medicine and business. Math teaches a student to partake in logical thinking, which is practiced in proofs, all of the problems in calculus and many story problems.

"Colleges like to look at a student's math scores because if you can do well in math, you're usually a focused student," said Mr. Buchanan. Math is a vital class to take, to help choose a career, improve the chances of getting into a college, and enhance a better way of thinking.

Shaping the Body

Working out to gain better health

Physical Education is an essential part of maintaining a healthy lifestyle for many high school students. To many, PE is the only physical activity they will endure in all year; others use it to get into shape or as a chance to get better in their particular sport. "I take PE to stay in shape and prepare my body for all the hard work during football season," stated P.J. Currey (03).

"Every time I leave Phys. Ed, I feel refreshed and energized. This class puts me in a good mood."

- Courtney Londo (04)

There are many different types of PE classes offered. Each class is one semester long and each student needs two PE credits to graduate.

These classes include; Freshman PE, General PE, Athletes PE, and Aerobics/Volleyball. Mrs. Biddick, Mr. Arthur, and Mr. Farris all teach their classes in their unique way. Some classes include various types of recreational games and others include a series of weight training and running drills. "The best part of gym is dodgeball," said Tad Garber (04). "If there is a game more violent, I haven't seen it."

PE gives students a way to escape from their academics and have an hour to exercise and have fun.

Looking Ahead

Using science to improve the future

Everyday we go to school and attend our daily routine. For some students, science can be the extra class that brings some fun to their schedule. The science teachers do their best to teach students in a variety of ways, through discussion and through hands-on activities, such as labs. Labs allow the students to get out of the normal class of sitting in a desk all hour. They are interesting as well as educational, because they allow students to see exactly what is happening. "Labs are great. I not only learn science but I get to experience it on a different level," said Kari Hodgkiss (04).

"My interests in the medical field have been enhanced by my learnings of science."

- Chris Sciamanna (02)

Learning certain Science topics can be challenging, but in turn they are preparing students for the future in many ways. Mrs. Nicholson commented, "It will be in every area of their lives from transportation, to medicine, to where and how they live."

The science department not only tries to make class interesting for students, but it also provides students with very useful information that will be applied to their futures.

-Megan Smith

Expanding the Mind

Learning more than the basics

Many students take advantage of the opportunity to explore their career options throughout high school. For those students interested in business or sales, the opportunities are endless.

Along with entrepreneurship, Mr. Gunderson teaches students the basics of marketing. Between these classes, students get a chance to do everything from stocking the shelves to running the school store.

They are not running their own business yet, but the students in Mrs.

Babcock's business technology and office management classes learn the technology portion of a successful business.

Students who enjoy working with numbers can take one of Mr. Starkey's accounting classes. Participants in these classes learn formulas that help them manage their money.

With these classes available, students can experience a career first-hand. Classes that put students in real world situations create opportunities for them to go beyond the basics.

Throughout the year, the many choirs of PHS can be heard throughout the school. These are the voices of students who choose to take one of the three choir classes offered at PHS. These students practice to raise their voices to new levels.

Belles also went to the MSHSVA festival this year, but for the first time.

They were overjoyed to come home with a 1 in both singing and sight-reading. Many like this class because it consists of all girls and it involves belles.

The Madrigals were very busy with concerts. They performed at restaurants and private parties. "The Christmas season was a very busy time; we got home really late a lot," said Sarah Whitney (04).

Changing the Pace

Working independently to succeed in school

Giving students the opportunity to have first-hand experiences is an effective way for students to get a full understanding of education. Inward Bound, an alternative education program, works with students who portray different needs in school and can work in a non-traditional environment.

Inward Bound focuses on students who may work better in smaller groups or individually rather than in larger traditional classrooms. "I can listen to my CD player while I'm working, but I have to stay focused and work or else I can't do the fun things like go on the field trips," commented Dorothy Kiogima (04).

"Inward Bound is awesome. I can work by myself as long as I get the work done."

-D.W. Lucky (03)

Many faculty members believed that some students didn't work to their full potential in the classroom. The students that attend Inward Bound, which is at Resort School, work at their own pace.

Assignments are given in packets and the student complete them within a certain time. Many classes that are offered at Inward Bound are also available at PHS, such as English, math, and social studies. Inward Bound strives to help students focus on their school work and work at their own pace to be successful.

-Amy Stone

Concentrating on his assignment, Carl Carver (04), begins his history homework. The students all help each other while doing their work.

"Inward Bound is a lot different, but fun at the same time. We are responsible for ourselves."

Lindsay Luhellier (04)

"There is no pressure to work at the same pace as everyone else, so it's more relaxing."

Robert Cartford (03)

"The teachers there are really cool. They let us work and be self-motivated."

Playing That Tune

Showing dedication to reach success in the end

Music. It influences lives throughout the entire globe. Some people simply listen to it, some people joyously sing to it, and some people actually make it.

There are over 200 students in the two PHS concert bands that create music. Both bands perform multiple pieces written by well-known composers. They make it look and sound easy. However, the Wind Ensemble and the Symphony bands play college level and higher pieces of music. The difficulty of the music does not discourage the band members, it only makes them work harder.

"It feels so good when I'm on stage, playing everything perfectly."

- Anne Hagelberg (05)

The hard work paid off when the concerts were successful. The two bands competed at the festival that Petoskey hosted in March, and both bands received a score of all 1's (the highest and the most honorable score), putting them in first place at the festival.

These students have surpassed difficult levels to create wonderful music, because that is how they share the music influences upon themselves.

-Amy Sarki

"When we get standing ovations, we know all the hard work was worth it."

Emily Wynn

"Even though band is a lot of rigorous work, it is still very enjoyable and a lot of fun."

■ As each year passes, new changes occur within the building. The year started off with the new gym, the cafeteria, the library and the lockers. These additions changed the atmosphere - each classroom had newly painted walls and fresh carpet. There were computers in almost every room. These new additions accomodated the increase of student population. With a total of 1,038 students, PHS has qualified for 'Class A' competition in athletics for the upcoming year.

Among freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors, all students tried to find a niche.

With the lockers organized according to advisory, all classes intermingled and grew closer - hazing was hard to come by. Because of advisory, each teacher had the oppurtunity to get to know a small group of students. The year ended with two of the high school's most respected teachers, Paul VanWagoner and Julie Flynn, retiring. They will be greatly missed by their colleagues, students and parents.

Reading her book, Heather May sits at a table in the library to concentrate. Many students do homework in the library, whether it is typing up a paper, doing math problems or working on a power point presentation.

Who — we Are and where we are about to go?

The Madrigals sang, the speakers shared, and finally, after four years of preparation, the seniors received their diplomas.

"Graduation is scary because it's the end of everything we've grown to know and the beginning of everything that's new to us," remarked Franny Bechek (02).

After being dazzled by the Madrigals rendition of Seasons of Love, Roy Harvey presented the 117th Commencement Address. After having senior Michelle Cosier stand up and look under her chair where she found a dollar bill, he told the graduating class they would have to work for what they wanted in life. "If you want to make a buck, you'll have to get off your butt," he laughed.

Karl Rohe, class president reminded everyone to "Listen, love and smile." Katie Ondrusek gave the message that they were their own composers and to follow their own music. Jennifer Fosmore used two bricks, one of which was painted in different colors, as symbols of how differences are important to hold society in place.

With the presenting of Robert George's (a 77-year-old World War II Veteran) diploma, the end finally approached. Students walked across the stage with smiles.

-C.C. Bechek

Roy Harvey, the chosen speaker for commencement, ended his speech with "Unforgettable", accompanied by Amy Hotchkiss.

For the first time, alphabetical arrangements were mixed up so girls and boys could have alternating colors of light and dark blue.

Waiting nervously, Michael Winter, Mack McKinstry and Jeremiah Thompson collect their thoughts before stepping out into the ceremony.

Getting together for one last picture, Erika Lucky, Courtney Leestma and Kristin Levanovich show their excitement.

The tradition of cap decorating was taken to new extremes with Erin Sarki's inspirational words.

Stepping off of the platform, Racheal Ducastel returns to her seat with her diploma in hand.

Glad that it's finally over, Bobby Morgan and Kile Swiss hug good-bye for one last time.

Concentrating on the aisle that she will soon be walking down, Stephanie O'Neill waits to walk out into the gym.

Enjoying the moment, Betony Furgeson, Erica Chippi and Katie Capaldi reminisce about the past few years.

Posing for a picture, Sara Meyer waits as a volunteer draws a sketch of herself. Besides sketches, chalk drawings were also being done at the senior party.

Relaxing at the senior party, Josie Kleinert concentrates on making a necklace. Making a variety of jewelry was popular at the party.

Taking a break from a long day, Hilary Newcomb and Kim McGeath check out photos from the Cedar Point rides.

On their way to the top of the Power Tower, Chris Thompson, Jon Meyer and Ryan High wait for the ride to begin.

Doing her best to weave around the other bumper cars, Rebecca Gabrick heads for another car to make a perfect hit at Cedar Point during the class trip.

Relaxing on a bench near a diner at Cedar Point, Steve Neizgoda, Kory Ciesielski and Lacey Edwards flash smiles despite not getting much sleep.

making last minute memories

After four years of endless homework, carrying around heavy textbooks and late nights of studying it all came to an end when the bell rang at 3:08. Now the senior class was about to go their separate ways. But first, a few more memories had to be made on the senior class trip and senior party.

Early on Thursday morning seniors gathered in charter busses and made the eight hour journey to Sandusky, Ohio to spend a day at Cedar Point.

One of the more popular rides was the Millennium Force that went up to 96 miles per hour. "I rode this ride at least four different times. It was definitely the best roller coaster there!" stated Andy Ruemenapp.

Following the graduation ceremony was the all night senior party. The theme of the party was "Survivor." Students had options of playing a variety of games, dancing to music, getting henna tatoos and much more. Towards the end of the night every student received a prize and also got to open their time capsules. These were envelopes filled with memories of their elementary and high school years.

After all the changes the senior class dealt with this year they certainly proved they are survivors.

-Jenna Serafini

With looks of terror on their faces, Jenna Serafini, Jessica Cosens, Megan Smith and Lindsay Hice brave the steep drops of the Millennium Force.

Waiting for his pan to be filled with plaster, Matt Behan prepares to make an imprint of his hand with the help of a parent volunteer.

Near the end of the party, Dustin Johnson reads his time capsule. Time capsules were filled with pictures, letters and other momentos.

Working diligently, Mrs. Nelson organizes paperwork in the Career Resource Center. She was a big asset to many students by helping them with college applications and future plans.

Although the score was undecided, the staff and students appeared to have fun playing a good, old-fashioned game of basketball. Driving hard through the students, Mr. Loe makes the basket to score two points for the staff's team.

On the Friday before prom, Police Officer Randy Weston and others from the police, fire, and medical departments help juniors and seniors learn the importance of not drinking and driving. The crew set up a mock crash scene in which a drunk driver killed the passenger of another car. Officer Weston explained the penalties that a driver would face for his crime.

e n d u r i n g FREEDOM

Tuesday, September 11, 2001, will be remembered as a tragic day that changed the world. That morning, a plot, masterminded by terrorist Osama bin Laden and the al-Qaeda network, was put into action. Two hijacked commercial airliners were flown into New York City's World Trade Center Towers, ultimately causing their collapse. Immediately following the incident, another hijacked airliner crashed into one side of the Pentagon in Washington, D.C, and a fourth plane crashed in Pennsylvania. Thousands of lives were lost, citizens were terrified and the world was in shock.

Following that mournful day the United States experienced anthrax scares, continued security threats and the reality of war. Despite the horror, fear and heartache, U.S. citizens united and their patriotic spirit soared. President Bush promised: "We will not tire, we will not falter, we will not fail." Through that statement and the remarkable sense of national pride exuded by U.S. citizens, it became evident that no threat, great or small, could deter the United States resolve for enduring freedom.

In response to the shocking tragedy, President George W. Bush addresses the nation offering strength, comfort and patriotism.

Ailing airlines urge citizens to defy terrorists' attempts to disrupt lives by reboarding airplanes.

Thousands of people world-wide donate blood and volunteer their services to aid U.S. recovery.
